

Bill Requires Pregnancy Benefits In Disability Plans

WASHINGTON (AP) — Tens of millions of pregnant workers would be assured of maternity leave and getting their jobs back if the House goes along with the Senate.

The Senate passed on Friday a requirement that employers include pregnancy benefits in all workers' disability plans.

The Senate's 75-11 vote was on legislation similar to that awaiting action in the House.

The bills, which would amend the 1964 Civil Rights Act, are an attempt to nullify a Supreme Court ruling that failure to include pregnancy in disability plans is not discrimination based on sex.

Sen. Harrison Williams, D-N.J., the chief sponsor of the legislation, said it would guarantee the 36 million women in the nation's labor force that they can have time off to give birth without losing their jobs.

Williams noted that two-thirds of the women who work do so because their families need the money.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., estimated that about 85 per cent of working women become pregnant during their working lives and that 60 per cent of those who are briefly disabled by pregnancy return to work.

"Since women work to support their families, depriving them of such coverage at a time they and their families are very much in need of it discriminates not only against these women but against their families as well," Kennedy said.

Sen. Thomas Eagleton, D-Mo., tried unsuccessfully to prevent the inclusion of abortions among pregnancy-related medical expenses. The bill does not say that abortions would have to be covered.

Eagleton's amendment lost 44-to-41. Williams estimated its cost at $191.5 million, an estimate Sen. Orrin Hatch, R-Utah, disputed.

Hatch claimed the proposal could cost businesses $2 billion a year and result in lower salaries for many workers.

Haldeman, Mitchell Seek Early Prison Releases

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica, who received his first Watergate case five years ago, now faces what may be his last Watergate-related decision.

He was asked Friday to free H.R. Haldeman and John N. Mitchell from prison by reducing their eight-year cover-up sentences to the time served. Without that decision the men would not be eligible for parole until December, 1979.

Mitchell, 64, told Sirica in a petition that he is suffering so severely from arthritis that he needs an artificial hip. The surgery can't be performed while he is a prisoner at Maxwell Air Force Base, Ala., the former attorney general said.

He also told the judge he is suffering from an enlarged heart and called attention to his motherless teen-aged daughter.

Haldeman, 50, petitioned Sirica that he has become "useless to the world, a burden on society and a great concern" to his family by being imprisoned.

And, the former chief of staff in the Richard Nixon White House, claimed he is the target of a smear campaign by the former president.

Both men claimed legal debts totaling hundreds of thousands of dollars and each said he is sorry for what he has done.

Sirica's long and intimate involvement with the Watergate case began Sept. 15, 1972, when, as chief judge of the federal court, he was handed grand jury indictments of the seven Watergate burglars.

He tried that case and many of the others that followed, including the conspiracy trial of Mitchell, Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman, the three men closest to Nixon. Ehrlichman, who began his prison sentence last year, filed for a reduction of his eight-year sentence in June. His case will be considered with the other two.

Sirica presided over most of the other big issues raised by Watergate — the question of forcing Nixon to give up his tapes, whether one tape was deliberately erased and if others were destroyed on purpose.

In those five years, Sirica has steadfastly refused to comment on any Watergate matter because of the possibility that he might yet have to render a decision on some aspect.

He has, in the past, reduced the sentences of Watergate figures John W. Dean III, Jeb Stuart Magruder, James W. McCord Jr., and Herbert W. Kalmbach.

Haldeman, Ehrlichman and Mitchell, all convicted of conspiring to hide White House involvement in Watergate and of lying under oath, are the last Watergate criminals still in prison. Haldeman is in the minimum security prison at Lompoc, Calif.; Mitchell at Maxwell AFB; and Ehrlichman at Safford, Ariz.

State Reaches Settlement On Crofters Loan Scandal

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Another chapter has been completed in the Statehouse loan scandal case which rocked the capital and damaged Republican political fortunes in Ohio seven years ago.

Bonding companies representing former Ohio Treasurer John D. Herbert and his deputy, held liable for state money lost in the scandal, have agreed to a $1.1 million settlement with the state, Atty. Gen. William J. Brown said Friday.

Herbert and his deputy, Robert F.

Gardner, were found liable for civil damages by the Ohio Supreme Court last year for a $7.9 million investment made with King Resources Co., a Denver, Colo. firm that subsequently went bankrupt and defaulted.

Brown said the settlement, negotiated by bonding companies that posted surety-guarantees for Herbert and Gardner, closed the state's case against the two former Republican officials.

The current attorney general, who defeated Herbert for the post in 1970 after the scandal damaged GOP fortunes statewide, said $9.5 million has been recovered for the state to date. The total loss to the state, when interest is computed, was nearly $11 million, according to Asst. Atty. Gen. Stephen C. Fitch.

The liability of Herbert and Gardner was eased last month when the state sold its claim in bankruptcy court to Texas International Co. of Oklahoma for $8.4 million. The firm was interested in some King property with potential for oil and gas drilling, Fitch said.

The settlement, approved by the Ohio Board of Deposit, closed the state's case against Ohio interests, Brown said.

The attorney general is continuing actions to recover damages from former officials of King, Arthur Anderson & Co., which prepared a financial statement for King, and the National Credit Office, which gave King notes an improper prime rating.

Called the "Crofters scandal" after a fee-finding firm that helped line up investments for the state, the affair was credited with sweeping former Gov. John J. Gilligan and other Democrats into office.

Among the bond companies settling for Herbert, Gardner and themselves were: Buckeye Union; Aetna Casualty and Surety; Celina Mutual Insurance Co.; Cincinnati Insurance Co., and Travelers Indemnity Co.

Treaty Probe Begins

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite denials from both U.S. and Panamanian officials that any such thing occurred, Senate investigators are pressing ahead with an inquiry into allegations of eavesdropping and blackmail in connection with the Panama Canal treaty talks.

Adm. Stansfield Turner, director of the CIA, and U.S. treaty negotiator Sol Linowitz will be summoned early next week to testify before a closed-door session of the Senate Intelligence Committee.

Other "appropriate members" of the U.S. intelligence community will also be called, Sen. Daniel K. Inouye, D-Hawaii, the committee chairman, told reporters Friday after the panel met for three hours.

Mystery shrouded the origin of the report that U.S. agents had electronically spied on Panama's canal treaty negotiators, and that after discovering the eavesdropping, the Panamanians had "blackmailed" the American officials into making concessions on the treaty.

One intelligence source said the report is related to complaints by Panamanian dictator Brig. Gen. Omar Torrijos last spring that his telephones had been tapped.

Sources close to congressional opponents of the treaty said, however, that it may refer to events dating back to early 1974, when then-Secretary of State Henry Kissinger and Panama's foreign minister, Juan Antonio Tack, signed a preliminary agreement outlining principles for the treaty talks.

According to this version, Torrijos discovered shortly before then that U.S. agents had been conducting electronic surveillance of his home and offices, and had compiled a dossier on his personal habits.

He was said to have confronted U.S. officials with this information, threatening to make it public unless they agreed to certain terms in the treaty.

The sources said Inouye recently obtained details of this and his panel began its own inquiry. They said Inouye himself informed Carter, who previously hadn't known of the alleged bugging.

An intelligence committee spokesman said there would be no comment on any of the allegations. Inouye earlier told reporters he was barred by law from commenting on intelligence matters.

The blackmail story drew strong denials from both U.S. and Panamanian officials, but the State Department would neither confirm nor deny that any surveillance had been conducted, saying it is against policy to discuss intelligence-gathering.

President Carter and Torrijos last week signed the treaty, under which the United States would gradually relinquish control of the waterway by the year 2000. The agreements face a tough battle in the Senate, however, where a two-thirds vote will be required for ratification.

Some critics of the treaty have charged that Torrijos used threats of violence or sabotage to coerce U.S. negotiators into agreeing to some terms of the pact.

STREET CLOSED — South Washington Street, between Main and Franklin Streets, will be closed for approximately two weeks while crews tear up the road surface and replace it. A section of East Mound Street immediately east of Mingo Street will also be closed for two weeks while repairs are made in that area. Motorists are advised to use caution when driving near these areas, especially with Mound Street Elementary School in the vicinity of each construction site.

Orient Strike Settled

A strike by members of Local 1878, American Federation of State County and Municipal Employees at Orient State Institute was settled today approximately 9½ hours after picketing began.

The strike stemmed from a lack of an adequate staff to deal with the 2,000 residents at Orient it was reported by Dr. Al Sofrenko, superintendent.

Striking members of the union agreed to return to work and call off the pickets when the state announced it would hire 98 additional staff members as quickly as possible.

Hospital authorities also agreed to meet with union officials to discuss the plans to de-populate the institution, returning more of the residents to the community.

"I just can't express my appreciation enough for what Pickaway County Sheriff Dwight Radcliff and Common Pleas Judge William Ammer did for us," Sofrenko said.

Sheriff Radcliff was at the state institute from about 9:15 p.m. Friday until early this morning with about nine cars and 18 auxiliary and special duty officers in case of any trouble.

About 60 pickets were originally placed at the gates by the union, but at 3:17 a.m. this morning, Judge Ammer issued a restraining order limiting the number of pickets to three at each gate.

The early morning shift reported to work without any problems.

Lloyd Danner is president of the local at Orient State.

Lance Testimony Continues

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate committee investigating Bert Lance scheduled a rare Saturday session today to wind up testimony from President Carter's budget director.

Lance's attorney was considering whether to subject his client to questions based on a Justice Department investigation of his use of bank airplanes.

On Friday, Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., chairman of the governmental affairs committee, said he was leaving that decision up to Lance's lawyer, Clark Clifford.

One committee member, Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., spent last Saturday at the Justice Department examining its investigation of how Lance used National Bank of Georgia airplanes while he was president of the bank.

Percy examined sections of a report by Comptroller of the Currency John Heimann on his investigation of the airplane's use.

During Friday's session, Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., the budget director's staunchest supporter on the panel, said Lance should have a chance to see the material if he was going to be questioned about it.

Ribicoff then called a closed meeting of the panel, inviting Lance and Clifford to sit in.

Lance stayed about half an hour, then left without any comment.

Clifford said after the meeting that Ribicoff was giving him a copy of notes taken by members of the committee staff on the Justice Department files.

Clifford said he would let Ribicoff know this morning whether Lance would answer questions about it.

Ribicoff said he would abide by Clifford's decision. He said Justice Department officials told him they would not object to questions based on the Heimann report.

Under questioning by Nunn earlier Friday, Lance said his use of a bank airplane to attend social events and political affairs was a justifiable business expense because he was "out to develop business at each and every opportunity."

Lance faced tough questions Friday on his alleged attempt to delay a routine FBI check of his past.

Sen. Charles McC. Mathias, R-Md., charged that Lance several times failed to sign papers giving the FBI permission to investigate him after he was nominated as budget director by Carter.

His poise weakening for the first time in the hearings, Lance said that, "Nobody ever told me there was any difficulty at all in getting any sort of paper signed by me."

"As soon as it was put before me, I signed it," he told the panel.

One committee member charged Lance was a victim of the kind of smear tactics often attributed to the late Sen. Joseph McCarthy.

Soviet Union Grain Harvest Hampered By Rain

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rainy, cool weather continues to hamper grain harvesting in important areas of the Soviet Union, according to the Agriculture Department.

The harvest now is concentrated in the major spring wheat regions of western Siberia and northern Kazakhstan. There has been some improvement the last 10 days, but harvesting operations still are behind schedule, says USDA's Foreign Agricultural Service.

A common practice of harvesting in the Soviet Union is to mow the grain stalks and then swath them into windrows. Later, the grain is threshed from the windrows. In the United States, wheat farmers use large self-propelled combines which cut and thresh the crop in a single operation.

As of Sept. 5, the agency said, only 53 per cent of the grain area of 25 million hectares in Kazakhstan had been swathed and only 10 million hectares were threshed. A hectare is about 2.47 acres.

"A period of warm, dry weather is needed to complete the harvest in these areas," the report said.

The USDA currently estimates 1977 Soviet grain production at a near record of 220 million metric tons, the second bumper harvest in a row. A metric ton is 2,205 pounds.

Pickaway County Coroner Dr. Ray Carroll has ruled a heart attack as the cause of death for a West Virginia man involved in an auto accident on U.S. Route 23 in the village of South-Bloomfield at 9:11 a.m. Thursday.

Carroll determined the cause of death early Thursday afternoon.

Unemployment rose in August to 7.1 per cent of the labor force (seasonally adjusted basis) compared to 6.9 per cent in July. The number unemployed has hovered around 7.0 per cent for the past five months. The increase in unemployment is an indicator of the slower growth rate of the economy. Government economic stimulus may improve the employment picture. Continued investments in the private sector are very important in providing new jobs.

Non-farm employment growth in rural and small communities in the 1970-77 period outdid the large metropolitan areas 2 to 1. Nonmetro employment grew 3.8 million jobs or 22 per cent versus 5.8 million and 11 per cent in the large cities. Nonmetro areas accounted for 40 per cent of the nearly 10 million nonfarm wage and salaried jobs added since 1970. The rural increases were concentrated in services, mining, finance, insurance, real estate, construction and trade.

Farm workers employed in Ohio and U.S. were down 7 per cent this summer compared to a year earlier. Hired farm workers in Ohio worked an average 34 hours per week at an average rate of $2.54.

World trade growth was 10-12 per cent in 1976 and may be 7-9 per cent in 1977. The latter is equal to the average growth rate in the past decade. But imbalances in international payments and rising debt burdens have developed in many countries due largely from oil import needs. These factors combined with inflation, tend to constrain economic growth and job stimulation. The developed world is divided into two groups: hard currency countries with moderate price increases and countries with serious inflation problems. Most developing countries face high inflation rates. But some trade preferences, mainly on farm products, were secured by developing countries the last couple years. Agricultural trade was affected less than other groups of commodities. U.S. farm trade growth in the future years is likely to be modest — there are no larger new markets available. Weather will be the major factor in export variability.

Cash farm receipts during 1976 in U.S. from marketings were estimated at $94.3 million or 2 per cent above the 1974 record. Net farm income declined to about $20 billion as farm expenses continued their upward spiral. Real net farm income or the "purchasing power" has fallen sharply during the last three years and are at the early 1960's level. A further decline in net farm earnings is expected in 1977 as cash receipts increase due to improved livestock receipts but lower crop returns, government payments escalate, and total expenses increase more than total receipts.

Soybean use and price for the 1977 crop is dependent largely upon domestic use of meal. Factors affecting domestic soybean meal use include the number of livestock to be fed, feeding profitability, supplies of competing protein feeds, relative prices of corn and meal. Lag in response to sharply lower meal prices is of considerable importance. Livestock feeders are slow in increasing use of soybean meal even at current meal prices. Past records show the pattern of use in the fall quarter persists throughout the market year. If low prices of meal and soybeans persist through the harvest period the base may be established for improved domestic meal use and possible soybean price increases later in the market year.

Egg production in the U.S. during July of 5.3 billion was down 3 per cent from one year ago. Layers on hand August 1 was 260 million or 1 per cent fewer than a year earlier, but up 1 per cent from July 1. Rate of lay on August 1 was slightly less than July 1.

Seed Rot In Soybeans Studied

Soybean producers who grow their crop for seed are having an increasing problem with the disease Phomopsis, often called seed rot or pod and stem blight. The fungus disease is most prevalent in eastern states where wet weather is common at harvest time. It can cause germination failure in up to 80 per cent of the crop.

D. A. Spilker, graduate research associate for the Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center, has been studying factors which influence infection of maturing soybean seed by Phomopsis. He reported some of his findings during the annual meeting of the American Phytopathological Society.

Early-planted (May 10) soybeans had more severe pod and stem blight symptoms and a higher percentage of Phomopsis-infected seed than late-planted (June 18) soybeans in small field plots. Spilker believes this happened because the early planted beans matured when weather conditions were more apt to be wet (late August-early September.) The late-planted beans matured under drier conditions in late September and early October.

In laboratory growth chambers, Spilker grew soybeans under standard light and temperature conditions. After inoculating the plants with Phomopsis spores, he subjected the plants to different combinations of temperature and relative humidity at seed maturing time. The combinations included high temperature (91 F. day and 75 F. night) and low relative humidity (40 per cent), high temperature and high relative humidity (96-98 per cent), low temperature (79 F. day and 61 F. night) and low relative humidity, and low temperature and high relative humidity.

Spilker found high relative humidity to be the key in determining to what extent the soybeans would be infected by Phomopsis. The highest levels of the disease were present in soybeans maturing under high humidity regardless of the temperature in the growth chamber.

Some scientists believe that increased levels of potassium in the soybean plant may help decrease the change of widespread Phomopsis infection. Along with his temperature and humidity study, Spilker made foliar applications of potassium on some of the plants. This resulted in higher levels of potassium in the foliage at pod fill but did not affect stem blight symptoms or the percentage of seed with Phomopsis.

Unemployment rose in August to 7.1 per cent of the labor force (seasonally adjusted basis) compared to 6.9 per cent in July. The number unemployed has hovered around 7.0 per cent for the past five months. The increase in unemployment is an indicator of the slower growth rate of the economy. Government economic stimulus may improve the employment picture. Continued investments in the private sector are very important in providing new jobs.

Non-farm employment growth in the rural and small communities in the 1970-77 period outdid the large metropolitan areas 2 to 1. Nonmetro employment grew 3.8 million jobs or 22 per cent versus 5.8 million and 11 per cent in the large cities. Some scientists believe that increased levels of potassium in the soybean plant may help decrease the chance of widespread Phomopsis infection. Along with his temperature and humidity study, Spilker made foliar applications of potassium on some of the plants. This resulted in higher levels of potassium in the foliage at pod fill but did not affect stem blight symptoms or the percentage of seed with Phomopsis.

News For Homemakers

By BEVERLY S. BECHTEL
County Extension Agent,
Home Economics

Vacation is needed by everyone, even agents, so I will be gone the next two weeks. While I'm gone, there is a good supply of food preservation booklets available in the office to help answer your questions.

So many people request zucchini recipes, I have a special sheet of them duplicated. Call our office (474-7534) if you would like a copy. If you have some to share, send them in. I'm also looking for good, well tested recipes for pumpkin, for a pilot 4-H pumpkin project.

In testing a canner recently, a homemaker and I noticed a tiny pin hole in the metal lid. Small bubbles of water were seeping out. After allowing pressure to go down we checked, and sure enough, there was a hole in the lid, not due to pitting. We called the company and they said to send it to them for replacement and not to use it. This would be a weak point in the metal and could be a stress point, especially under pressure.

The following information is from Dr. Robert Joseph, food preservation specialist, Ohio State University.

Why do some pickle recipes suggest laying grape leaves on top of the pickles in the crock? A research report in the mid-50's indicates that grape leaves contain a substance which controls pickle softening. Natural enzymes in the pickle may break down pectin and cellulose, cell structural components which add to crispness, but grape leaves, especially scuppernon grape leaves, contain some factor which blocks the softening enzymes.

Can burpless cucumbers be pickled? Burpless cucumbers yield soft pickles, according to one expert. No unusual safety problems are foreseen.

How can vinegar strength be tested? Stock answers have been: high school chemistry lab and pH test kits at wine-making supply shops. Regarding the latter, one such shop in Columbus carries a kit for $3.50, but the kit may test for tartaric, rather than acetic acid. Buyers would be wise to check. To some this response may not be acceptable, but I still maintain that homemade vinegar should only be used for making products like potato salad and cole slaw unless accurately checked. Commercial vinegars are being standardized at 5 per cent acetic acid, and that's what modern, tested pickling recipes call for.

What about freezing pickles? Based on a recommendation by Mr. Darrel Acker (Wapakoneta Area) whose wife uses this recipe and Dorothy Laubacher, Akron University, who tested the recipe for the Akron Beacon-Journal, I am offering for trial the following recipe for freezer pickles.

Freezer Pickles

Slice vegetables very thin:
7 cups sliced cucumbers
1 cup sliced onion
1 cup sliced sweet pepper
Mix dressing in a blender:
2 cups sugar
1 cup white vinegar
1 1/4 tsp. salt
1 tsp. celery salt
Pour dressing over sliced vegetables. Put in a refrigerator for 4 to 5 days. Then freeze (in freezer container).

Columbus Firm Low Bidder On Piketon Project

PIKETON — B. G. Danis Company of Columbus, Ohio, was the apparent low bidder on relocation of six warehouses to make room for construction of the U.S. Energy Research and Development Administration (ERDA) centrifuge uranium enrichment plant to be built here.

The Danis bid, one of ten received, was for $1,127,827. The official government estimate was $1,321,718. After careful review of all bids ERDA will award a contract within the next few weeks.

The warehouse relocation is one of several preliminary jobs to be done prior to construction of the centrifuge plant. The contractor will have one year to complete the work.

Construction of the main process buildings will start in late 1978. Total cost of the overall project is estimated at about $4.5 billion in 1978 dollars. Some 4,000 people will be required to build the plant and an estimated 2,300 will be needed to operate the completed facility. ERDA estimates completion in 1988.

Many lawns were severely damaged and some almost wiped out this year, particularly in Central Ohio. Problems were many.

To begin with, the 1977 growing season was one of the most severe on home lawns in many years, according to Turf Specialist Dave Martin of The Ohio State University Agronomy Department. Growth started in late spring with unseasonably warm weather and heavy infestations of the fungus disease melting-out, caused by Helminthosporium. Problems continued with extended heat and drought through July, along with damaging populations of chinch bugs, sod webworms and bluegrass billbugs. Chinch bugs and bluegrass billbugs were more severe than they have been for several years.

Weather conditions also caused a change in timing of insect populations and some lawns had severe damage even though they were treated with an insecticide. This damage was already developing, however, due to insect feeding before insecticide application.

Now, with the cooler temperatures and moist conditions that are ideal for bluegrass growth, most of the problems for this season should be over. However, you could possibly get another insect. So, examine the turf occasionally for insect activity and if necessary, apply another insecticide application.

Severely damaged lawns may require complete reestablishment. Most may be overseeded. If there is sufficient green grass left in the lawn to make it worth saving, then overseed. This may be done by detaching or by a severe raking that cuts slices or grooves in the sod. Seed can then be broadcast and watered into the grooves. This insures seed-soil contact and provides a good environment for germination and growth. Do not spread seed on top of the sod without some type of cultivation such as dethatching.

If lawn must be completely reestablished, then all sod must be removed, soil prepared properly and seeding or sodding done. The most critical step is supplying adequate water throughout the reestablishment period.

Kentucky bluegrass is best for most lawns in Ohio. Three or four high quality Kentucky bluegrass varieties mixed together for seeding are recommended. An alternative is to add about 10 per cent of a turf-type perennial ryegrass for more rapid germination and establishment.

Early September is an excellent time to apply some fertilizer to your lawn. Fertilizer at this time will supply an adequate nutrient level for the fall growth period. Also, applying adequate levels of nutrients will allow the lawn to recover from any damage that may have occurred during the hot summer months, if it was not too severe and reestablishment necessary.

A maximum of 1.5 pounds of nitrogen (N) per 1000 square feet may be applied at one time. This means that 15 pounds of fertilizer having 10 per cent N could be applied to 1000 square feet of lawn area. (Look at the fertilizer analysis tag — there should be numbers showing the amount of each nutrient, N, P, and K — Nitrogen, Phosphorus, and Potash. The first number given is the nitrogen (N), as in 15-15-15, or 20-10-5, for examples.) Spread fertilizer evenly and avoid overlap or fertilizer spill, which could result in foliar burn. Many good lawn fertilizers are marketed. It is important to use one of them during September.

Vacation is needed by everyone, even agents, so I will be gone the next two weeks. While I'm gone, there is a good supply of food preservation booklets available in the office to help answer your questions.

So many people request zucchini recipes, I have a special sheet of them duplicated. Call our office (474-7534) if you would like a copy. If you have some to share, send them in. I'm also looking for good, well tested recipes for pumpkin, for a pilot 4-H pumpkin project.

In testing a canner recently, a homemaker and I noticed a tiny pin hole in the metal lid. Small bubbles of water were seeping out. After allowing pressure to go down we checked, and sure enough, there was a hole in the lid, not due to pitting. We called the company and they said to send it to them for replacement and not to use it. This would be a weak point in the metal and could be a stress point, especially under pressure.

The following information is from Dr. Robert Joseph, food preservation specialist, Ohio State University.

Why do some pickle recipes suggest laying grape leaves on top of the pickles in the crock? A research report in the mid-50's indicates that grape leaves contain a substance which controls pickle softening. Natural enzymes in the pickle may break down pectin and cellulose, cell structural components which add to crispness, but grape leaves, especially scuppernon grape leaves, contain some factor which blocks the softening enzymes.

Can burpless cucumbers be pickled? Burpless cucumbers yield soft pickles, according to one expert. No unusual safety problems are foreseen.

How can vinegar strength be tested? Stock answers have been: high school chemistry lab and pH test kits at wine-making supply shops. Regarding the latter, one such shop in Columbus carries a kit for $3.50, but the kit may test for tartaric, rather than acetic acid. Buyers would be wise to check. To some this response may not be acceptable, but I still maintain that homemade vinegar should only be used for making products like potato salad and cole slaw unless accurately checked. Commercial vinegars are being standardized at 5 per cent acetic acid, and that's what modern, tested pickling recipes call for.

What about freezing pickles? Based on a recommendation by Mr. Darrel Acker (Wapakoneta Area) whose wife uses this recipe and Dorothy Laubacher, Akron University, who tested the recipe for the Akron Beacon-Journal, I am offering for trial the following recipe for freezer pickles.

Freezer Pickles

Slice vegetables very thin:
7 cups sliced cucumbers
1 cup sliced onion
1 cup sliced sweet pepper
Mix dressing in a blender:
2 cups sugar
1 cup white vinegar
1 1/4 tsp. salt
1 tsp. celery salt
Pour dressing over sliced vegetables. Put in a refrigerator for 4 to 5 days. Then freeze (in freezer container).

Columbus Firm Low Bidder On Piketon Project

PIKETON — B. G. Danis Company of Columbus, Ohio, was the apparent low bidder on relocation of six warehouses to make room for construction of the U.S. Energy Research and Development Administration (ERDA) centrifuge uranium enrichment plant to be built here.

The Danis bid, one of ten received, was for $1,127,827. The official government estimate was $1,321,718. After careful review of all bids ERDA will award a contract within the next few weeks.

The warehouse relocation is one of several preliminary jobs to be done prior to construction of the centrifuge plant. The contractor will have one year to complete the work.

Construction of the main process buildings will start in late 1978. Total cost of the overall project is estimated at about $4.5 billion in 1978 dollars. Some 4,000 people will be required to build the plant and an estimated 2,300 will be needed to operate the completed facility. ERDA estimates completion in 1988.

A Page Of Opinion

Mileage Baloney

Now that the Washington bureaucracy has itself firmly entrenched as the final authority on gasoline mileage "standards" for new cars—"standards" which are handed down from Mt. Potomoc each new model year—the General Accounting Office says the mileage estimates produced at some expense by the Environmental Protection Agency aren't all that accurate.

The fact is, said GAO auditors, the pristine conditions under which EPA arrives at its estimates may never be experienced by the average driver. That is why his consumption may differ widely from the numbers pasted on the window when he bought the car.

For example, the GAO found the miles per gallon on a 7 per cent grade would average about 55 per cent less than on the level ground, about 32 per cent less on a 3 per cent grade, 45 per cent less on dry sand, 35 per cent less on gravel and 15 per cent less on broken or patched asphalt.

An 18 mph headwind would cut the EPA figures by 10 per cent, at 4,000-foot altitudes they would drop another 15 per cent, and at a temperature of 20 degrees Fahrenheit mileage would decline another 8 per cent. A number of other factors also were cited which are commonly encountered and can affect fuel consumption.

As if that were not enough, the GAO also found it isn't true that smaller cars necessarily obtain better fuel economy. The study found some large and midsize cars turning in gasoline mileage equal to or better than some compacts and sub-compacts.

All of which suggests the fuel consumption guidelines coming out of Washington have little substance. But, then the consumer may already know that. The GAO also found that only 7 per cent of new car buyers in 1976 paid any attention to the mileage ratings displayed on the vehicle.

Baseball Math

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE
NEW YORK — It is generally accepted that most kids like baseball.

It is equally accepted that most kids do not particularly like math.

Based on these premises, educators have come up with a scheme for luring students into a love of math by incorporating professional baseball games into the course of study.

"We developed the idea when we realized that somehow even the youngster who can't pass a basic test in simple addition and subtraction manages to remember the batting averages of the players on his favorite ball team," says one of the originators. "He probably can also easily compute how many wins and losses it will take to put them into first place - if a parent or one of his peers shows him how."

"And he'll enjoy doing it, because it involves a game - rather than a sheet of figures which he finds dull and meaningless."

With the pennant races currently peaking the interest of students, educators suggest that parents take advantage of the moment by showing their baseball-involved children how to compute the batting averages and earned run averages of their favorite hitters and pitchers.

(Since parents aren't much smarter at math than their youngsters, the educators tell us how to do it: To find the batting average of a hitter, divide the number of times at bat into the number of hits the player has made, and carry it out three decimal places; e.g., if Reggie Jackson of the Yankees got 156 hits in 519 times at bat, his average would be .301. For an earned run average, you multiply the number of a pitcher's earned runs times nine, divide the number of innings pitched, and carry out to three decimal places; e.g., if Tom Seaver of the Reds allowed 67 earned runs in 290 innings pitched,

his ERA would be 2.06.)

There is a reasonable chance, of course, that some youngsters will not fall for this scheme to educate them via their favorite national pastime. My son, for example, calls it a subversive plot and wholly uncalled-for, since statisticians earn good money for doing this type work, and the batting averages and ERA's are printed every day in the newspapers. He feels that teaching basic math skills through baseball could backfire. "It doesn't add up," he puns. "Instead of turning us on to math, it could turn off sports."

But apparently, he is off-base.

A group of Tennessee teachers who developed a system for teaching basic math via pro sports three years ago have hit upon a workable plan. The St. Regis Paper Co. of New York, which makes teaching aids, packaged it in the form of a game - presenting drills in the format of a baseball board playing surface. Last year, it was "played" by more than 4,000 elementary school students across the U.S., and their math marks escalated. This summer, New York's Police Athletic League (PAL) kicked off a series of vacation-time courses in 12 PAL centers, for youngsters under eight years.

Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Out there on the firing line, where the deals are real and theories and forecasts count for nothing, a significant change may be occurring in business' attitude toward capital spending.

The evidence is brand new and previously unreported, but it is hard — not an analysis or guesswork. It is this:

A spending mood seems to be developing. A wide spectrum of business is committing funds for expansion and improvement of plant and equipment. In effect, business is getting ready for better times.

The evidence seems to indicate that one of the most persistent economic laggards, capital spending, is about to feed new strength into an economy that has been losing strength. It suggests that wavering business confidence has begun to stabilize.

The most precise report comes from the big leasing-financing unit of Commercial Credit, a Control Data subsidiary.

"We're hearing more now in the marketplace about acquisition plans than we've heard since the boom years of 1973 and 1974," said a spokesman.

The upturn has been especially strong in the past 60 days, said Donald Mikesell, a top executive with the unit, Commercial Credit-McCullagh Leasing, which has about $1 billion of financial outstanding.

Mikesell states with little qualification that his concern's current experience foretells a rise two months from now in the official government figures for capital spending.

"We're on the street. We're dealing with real problems and real demands," he said. "We know what we see 60 days ahead of the Commerce Department figures."

Mikesell said his company's experience has been particularly strong since mid-summer when, ironically, some economists first began to express fears that an economic slowdown might deteriorate into a recession.

Reviewing reports from the field by contact men whose job it is to finance the purchase or lease of expensive capital equipment, Mikesell stated: "We see no hard evidence of a turn-down. We're seeing an upswing."

Asked to name some of the items being financed, he cited construction equipment, machine tools, punch press, materials handling equipment and transportation machinery.

Particularly strong interest appears to be emerging from energy related firms, he said, as well as from manufacturers whose products relate to consumer sales, such as store fixtures and restaurant equipment.

"This indicates to us that businesses are perceiving the need to increase productive capacity," he said. "And it also means that the confidence of many smaller business owners is improving, which has to be positive in the long run."

10th Paw Paw Grape And Wine Festival Opens

PAW PAW, Mich. (AP) — The Paw Paw Grape and Wine Festival opens today for its 10th run — only this year it's nine miles up the road in Hartford.

The annual event ran into problems last year when some townsfolk complained of rowdiness and too much sampling of the product it honors. Village officials pulled in the welcome mat, forcing festival sponsors to find a new home.

Festival officials complain that the problems were overblown, but they hope for a good turnout during three days of festivities at the Van Buren County Fairgrounds in Hartford.

"We're budgeting for 20,000 but planning on up to 40,000 — depending on the weather," said festival director Gary Verdries, a Paw Paw restaurant owner.

LAFF - A - DAY

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

I would like to have my thighs and buttocks made smaller. I have not yet discussed this with my husband or with my doctor. Before I do, I'd like to know how successful this operation is. Is it safe?

Mrs. H.Z., Tex.

The success of modern plastic surgery is evidenced in the number of people who are having operations on their eyes, nose, face and breasts.

These are associated with excellent results and are a source of gratification to the patient.

In recent years, the surgical removal of abdominal fat and the "narrowing" of the hips, thighs and buttocks have become a further extension of cosmetic plastic surgery.

The results of these safe, but extensive, operations do not seem to be as gratifying as those done about the face.

Before contemplating such surgery, you must carefully balance the extent of the operation with the ultimate result you hope to attain. This can only be done by discussing every aspect of the surgery with the plastic surgeon. No area of doubt or confusion should exist before embarking on the surgery.

Plastic surgeons carefully evaluate the psychological structure of the person who seeks such surgery. In addition, they do not make extravagant promises about the scars and the total cosmetic result that can be anticipated.

I notice that after an ordinary cold or sinus infection it takes me about two weeks to recover my strength. I feel that I must lie in bed, and barely can make it through ordinary household routines. Is this an unusual reaction?

Mrs. F.A., N.Y.

Dear Mrs. A.:
Such weakness and fatigue is not uncommon after infections. If not enough attention is paid to this feeling of devitalization, the weakness may persist for a long time.

During acute infections, especially with moderate to high fever, there is a loss of protein. This protein deficiency probably accounts for the extraordinary sense of fatigue.

A well-balanced diet, high in protein, is essential during the recovery period. There are a number of excellent high protein and high amino acid products available at your drug store. These rapidly replenish the temporary loss of protein and quickly restore energy.

I've always felt that people should pamper themselves a little after an infection.

NEW YORK (AP) — Was a moustache the key in the Dewey-Truman presidential campaign of 1948?

Odds maker Jimmy "the Greek" Snyder thinks so, and he says he won $170,000 on that belief.

In an article in the October issue of Penthouse magazine, Snyder said he got his first inkling Dewey might be in trouble when his older sister told him girls don't like men with moustaches.

After computing that women made up 52 per cent of the electorate, Snyder said, he hired three women to stand outside a supermarket and interview 500 women. The poll found 122 for Dewey and 347 against.

Snyder said he took some further political soundings, then put $10,000 on Truman at 17-to-1 odds.

A Page Of Opinion

Mileage Baloney

Now that the Washington bureaucracy has itself firmly entrenched as the final authority on gasoline mileage "standards" for new cars—"standards" which are handed down from Mt. Potomac each new model year—the General Accounting Office says the mileage estimates produced at some expense by the Environmental Protection Agency aren't all that accurate.

The fact is, said GAO auditors, the pristine conditions under which EPA arrives at its estimates may never be experienced by the average driver. That is why his consumption may differ widely from the numbers posted on the window when he bought the car.

For example, the GAO found the miles per gallon on a 7 per cent grade would average about 55 per cent less than on the level ground, about 32 per cent less on a 3 per cent grade, 45 per cent less on gravel and 15 per cent less on broken or patched asphalt.

An 18 mph headwind would cut the EPA figures by 10 per cent, at 4,000-foot altitudes they would drop another 15 per cent, and at a temperature of 20 degrees Fahrenheit mileage would decline another 8 per cent. A number of other factors also were cited which are commonly encountered and can affect fuel consumption.

As if that were not enough, the GAO also found it isn't true that smaller cars necessarily obtain better fuel economy. The study found some large and midsize cars turning in gasoline mileage equal to or better than some compacts and sub-compacts.

All of which suggests the fuel consumption guidelines coming out of Washington have little substance. But, then the consumer may already know that. The GAO also found that only 7 per cent of new car buyers in 1976 paid any attention to the mileage ratings displayed on the vehicle.

Baseball Math

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK — It is generally accepted fact that most kids like baseball.

It is equally accepted that most kids do not particularly like math.

Based on these premises, educators have come up with a scheme for luring students into a love of math by incorporating professional baseball games into the course of study.

"We developed the idea when we realized that somehow even the youngster who can't pass a basic test in simple addition and subtraction manages to remember the batting averages of the players on his favorite ball team," says one of the originators. "He probably can also easily compute how many wins and losses it will take to put them into first place - if a parent or one of his peers shows him how."

"And he'll enjoy doing it, because it involves a game - rather than a sheet of figures which he finds dull and meaningless."

With the pennant races currently peaking the interest of students, educators suggest that parents take advantage of the moment by showing their baseball-involved children how to compute the batting averages and earned run averages of their favorite hitters and pitchers.

(Since parents aren't much smarter at math than their youngsters, the educators tell us how to do it: To find the batting average of a hitter, divide the number of times at bat into the number of hits the player has made, and carry it out three decimal places; e.g., if Reggie Jackson of the Yankees got 156 hits in 519 times at bat, his average would be .301. For an earned run average, you multiply the number of a pitcher's earned runs times nine, divide the number of innings pitched, and carry out to three decimal places; e.g., if Tom Seaver of the Reds allowed 67 earned runs in 290 innings pitched,

his ERA would be 2.08.)

There is a reasonable chance, of course, that some youngsters will not fall for this scheme to educate them via their favorite national pastime. My son, for example, calls it a subversive plot and wholly uncalled-for, since statisticians earn good money for doing this type work, and the batting averages and ERA's are printed every day in the newspapers. He feels that teaching basic math skills through baseball could backfire. "It doesn't add up," he puns. "Instead of turning us on to math, it could turn off sports."

But apparently, he is off-base.

A group of Tennessee teachers who developed a system for teaching basic math via pro sports three years ago have hit upon a workable plan. The St. Regis Paper Co. of New York, which makes teaching aids, packaged it in the form of a game - presenting drills in the format of a baseball board playing surface. Last year, it was "played" by more than 4,000 elementary school students across the U.S., and their math marks escalated. This summer, New York's Police Athletic League (PAL) kicked off a series of vacation-time courses in 12 PAL centers, for youngsters under eight years.

Baseball Hall of Famer Monte Irvin took charge, to add extra glamour to the project. Standing in front of a class of children, he'd hold up a "flash card" with a basic math problem - such as 3 x 8 - printed on it. A student-player at "bat" gives an answer to the "flash card" question. Depending on the difficulty of the problem, a correct answer gets him a single, double, triple or home run.

Enthusiasm, according to Irvin, is of high decibel quality.

"Math Baseball is really showing kids who might hate math that math can be fun, too. I think more parents should realize that a child's interest in sports is a great tool for building educational things."

Baseball isn't the only math game in town.

Educators say that interested parents can use similar "problems" with other sports.

For football, for example - during a game, have a youngster pick out his favorite end, back and quarterback. Then have him figure out how many yards the back gains, the percentage of receptions the end makes, and the total yardage gained on the quarterback's completed passes. This information can usually be checked later by reading news reports on the game. For basketball, figure the free throw percentage of the home team after each game; keep a running total of points the child's favorite player scores during the game, and through the season. "With a little imagination," say the gamesman-scholars, the same "rules" can be switched to apply to soccer, tennis, golf, track and field. "Kids will love it."

"Very calculating," says my cynical son.

Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Out there on the firing line, where the deals are real and theories and forecasts count for nothing, a significant change may be occurring in business' attitude toward capital spending.

The evidence is brand new and previously unreported, but it is hard — not an analysis or guesswork. It is this: A spending mood seems to be developing. A wide spectrum of business is committing funds for expansion and improvement of plant and equipment. In effect, business is getting ready for better times.

The evidence seems to indicate that one of the most persistent economic laggards, capital spending, is about to feed new strength into an economy that has been losing strength. It suggests that wavering business confidence has begun to stabilize.

The most precise report comes from the big leasing-financing unit of Commercial Credit, a Control Data subsidiary.

"We're hearing more now in the marketplace about acquisition plans than we've heard since the boom years of 1973 and 1974," said a spokesman.

The upturn has been especially strong in just the past 60 days, said Donald Mikesell, a top executive with the unit, Commercial Credit-McCullough Leasing, which has about $1 billion of financial outstanding.

Mikesell states with little qualification that his concern's current experience foretells a rise two months from now in the official government figures for capital spending.

"We're on the street. We're dealing with real problems and real demands," he said. "We know what we see 60 days ahead of the Commerce Department figures."

Mikesell said his company's experience has been particularly strong since mid-summer when, ironically, some economists first began to express fears that an economic slowdown might deteriorate into a recession.

Reviewing reports from the field by contact men whose job it is to finance the purchase or lease of expensive capital equipment, Mikesell stated: "We see no hard evidence of a turnaround. We're seeing an upswing."

Asked to name some of the items being financed, he cited construction equipment, machine tools, punch press, materials handling equipment and transportation machinery.

Particularly strong interest appears to be emerging from energy related firms, he said, as well as from manufacturers whose products relate to consumer sales, such as store fixtures and restaurant equipment.

"This indicates to us that businesses are perceiving the need to increase productive capacity," he said. "And it also means that the confidence of many smaller business owners is improving, which has to be positive in the long run."

10th Paw Paw Grape And Wine Festival Opens

PAW PAW, Mich. (AP) — The Paw Paw Grape and Wine Festival opens today for its 10th run — only this year it's nine miles up the road in Hartford.

The annual event ran into problems last year when some townsfolk complained of rowdiness and too much sampling of the product it honors. Village officials pulled in the welcome mat, forcing festival sponsors to find a new home.

Festival officials complain that the problems were overblown, but they hope for a good turnout during three days of festivities at the Van Buren County Fairgrounds in Hartford.

"We're budgeting for 20,000 but planning on up to 40,000 — depending on the weather," said festival director Gary Verdries, a Paw Paw restaurant owner.

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

I would like to have my thighs and buttocks made smaller. I have not yet discussed this with my husband or with my doctor. Before I do, I'd like to know how successful this operation is. Is it safe?

Mrs. H.Z., Tex.

Dear Mrs. Z:

The success of modern plastic surgery is evidenced in the number of people who are having operations on their eyes, nose, face and breasts.

These are associated with excellent results and are a source of gratification to the patient.

In recent years, the surgical removal of abdominal fat and the "narrowing" of the hips, thighs and buttocks have become a further extension of cosmetic plastic surgery.

The results of these safe, but extensive, operations do not seem to be as gratifying as those done about the face.

Before contemplating such surgery, you must carefully balance the extent of the operation with the ultimate result you hope to attain. This can only be done by discussing every aspect of the surgery with the plastic surgeon. No area of doubt or confusion should exist before embarking on the surgery.

Plastic surgeons carefully evaluate the psychological structure of the person who seeks such surgery. In addition, they do not make extravagant promises about the scars and the total cosmetic result that can be anticipated.

I notice that after an ordinary cold or sinus infection it takes me about two weeks to recover my strength. I feel that I must lie in bed, and barely can make it through ordinary household routines. Is this an unusual reaction?

Mrs. F.A., N.Y.

Dear Mrs. A:

Such weakness and fatigue is not uncommon after infections. If not enough attention is paid to this feeling of devaluation, the weakness may persist for a long time.

During acute infections, especially with moderate to high fever, there is a loss of protein. This protein deficiency probably accounts for the extraordinary sense of fatigue.

A well-balanced diet, high in protein, is essential during the recovery period. There are a number of excellent high protein and high amino acid products available at your drug store. These rapidly replenish the temporary loss of protein and quickly restore energy.

I've always felt that people should pamper themselves a little after an infection.

Goodyear Finds Gas In Jackson

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — With the state sharing the financial risk, private industry has found a supply of natural gas where previous drilling efforts failed.

Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., said Thursday the Ohio Energy and Resource Development Agency (OERDA) put up onethird of the cost for drilling the well 75 miles southeast of Columbus in Jackson County.

With Nucorp Energy, Inc., of East Liverpool doing the drilling, the well was sunk 4,300 feet in the Beekmantown geological formation under Jackson County.

Open flow readings from the well measure up to two million cubic feet of gas per day, Goodyear said.

Other wells have been drilled in the same formation but "none has been a lasting commercial success," the rubber company reported.

Goodyear already has completed three wells on its own property in Akron that are expected to produce about 50 per cent of the firm's natural gas requirements in Akron. Those wells tap the more commonly productive Clinton formation.

Initial efforts to locate gas in the Rose Run formation beneath Jackson were unsuccessful, Goodyear said.

Successful wells in that formation can be as much as 10 times as productive as Clinton formation wells, Goodyear said, but they also are much deeper and more costly.

That greatly increases the financial risk of drilling.

The state joined in the deep drilling venture because the project offered a chance for deep, detailed exploration of a number of possible gas-bearing formations.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Report Barking Dog And Get Some Rest

DEAR ABBY: Our neighbors across the street are lovely people, but they have one fault. They tie their dogs outside in summer, and he barks continually, night and day, for no reason at all. I love dogs, so I can't bring myself to do anything that might hurt him, such as poison him, shoot him or turn him loose at night, although I confess I have thought of it during a sleepless night while the barking was at its peak.

I hate to make enemies of these lovely people by reporting them to the police or humane society. And earplugs are out because if an emergency phone call or knock on the door came, I could not hear it. I have spoken to these neighbors several times about it, but they do nothing. Any suggestions?

DOG-TIRED: Tell these "lovely people" that since your previous requests have been ignored, you must now protest to the authorities. Your rest is more important than their friendship.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have taken a teenage cousin into our home because she is in trouble. We have children of our own and are financially able to care for this girl and pay all her expenses. She has one year of high school left, which she will finish after her baby is born.

Now the problem: She wants to keep her baby. We have had our doctor and lawyer talk to her, and no one can get through to her. She thinks it is a "sin" to give away her own flesh and blood.

Abby, this child is 17 and the boy will not marry her (for which she is lucky, as he is only a kid himself and not much good). My husband and I would adopt the child as a compromise, but we want her to put her past behind her, go on to college and start life over where no one knows of her mistake. We need your help in convincing her that this would be best for her and the baby. Please help us.

ANONYMOUS

DEAR ANONYMOUS: It would appear that the girl, under the guise of selflessness and sacrifice, feels guilty and is determined to punish herself for her mistake. Actually, she would be punishing the child more.

For you to adopt the baby would be as grave a mistake as for her to keep it. I know of no one more qualified to deal with "sin" than a clergyman. Ask yours to talk to the girl.

CONFIDENTIAL TO E.L.R. IN JAMESTOWN: Yes, I have a booklet titled "HOW TO HAVE A LOVELY WEDDING," but the best advice I can offer a bride is, "See your doctor (and preferably a gynecologist) for a physical checkup and authoritative answer to all your questions before marriage."

If birth control is desired, it should be planned BEFORE the wedding. This includes Catholic girls, too, as the rhythm method should be clearly understood to be successfully practiced. (Too many young wives, who had planned on working for a few years, discover to their horror that they got pregnant on their honeymoon.)

Many couples experience shock and grief on learning that they are unable to consummate the marriage due to some slight physical abnormality which would have been easily corrected by minor surgery.

Motherly advice from Aunt Liz or "tips" from one of the girls is fine, but before a bride keeps her date with the preacher, she should keep one with her doctor.

NIPSCO Will Reduce Seepage Toward Dunes

HAMMOND, Ind. (AP) — Northern Indiana Public Service Co. says it will reduce seepage from fly-ash settling basins but to stop all seepage could damage the Indiana Dunes National Lakeshore.

NIPSCO Chairman Dean H. Mitchell said Thursday, "If the water seepage from our ash ponds is stopped completely, in all probability the interdunal ponds in the Indiana National Lakeshore will substantially diminish or dry up."

The U.S. Interior Department announced earlier this week it would seek legal action against NIPSCO because of failure to devise a plan to protect the dunes.

Carter To Propose Admitting Non-PLO's To Peace Conference

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration intends to propose to Israel that it admit Palestinians who are not known members of the Palestine Liberation Organization to a Middle East peace conference, U.S. officials say.

The proposal will be made next week to Israeli foreign minister Moshe Dayan when he is in Washington for talks with President Carter and Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance.

The Palestinians would be mayors or other Arab officials from the occupied West Bank of the Jordan River and others "not prominently identified with the PLO," one knowledgeable U.S. official said.

In the past Israel has flatly ruled out any negotiation with the PLO, which is committed by its charter to the destruction of the Jewish state.

However, key Carter advisers within the White House are said to believe Israel might consider the proposal as part of a compromise package. The inducement would be concessions by the Arab countries toward the kind of peace treaty Israel has insisted on.

The State Department, it is understood, is not yet convinced the proposal has a good chance of getting Israel's approval. But top department officials have agreed it is one idea that should be put to Dayan.

The foreign minister left Israel Thursday with a draft peace treaty which he said the Arab foreign ministers probably would reject. "I don't really think they know the plan, but I think they will not accept it anyway," he told a news conference outside Tel Aviv.

Dayan flew to Brussels for meetings with European Jewish leaders and Israeli ambassadors. He is due to see Carter and Vance on Monday.

Dayan will negotiate indirectly through Vance with the Arab foreign ministers, attending the U.N. General Assembly in New York.

The Israeli proposals are said to differ little from previous ones, although a cover letter sent to Vance with a copy of the treaty 11 days ago reportedly offers substantial withdrawals from the Sinai Peninsula.

The Carter administration earlier this week declared through the State Department that the Palestinians should be represented in Arab-Israeli negotiations.

Economics Prof Tries To Change Business Image

CINCINNATI (AP) — "Some kids might look up to a superstar in business if they knew what a superstar of business is," said an economics professor trying to change the image of business.

The place to start is with Ohio's teachers. The New York based Joint Council on Economic Education is establishing centers at seven Ohio colleges offering college credit.

"I don't know what I'm going to do when I get out of school, business I guess, but I don't know much about it," is a line echoed by countless students that George M. Vredevelde wants to eliminate.

He is the director of the program at the University of Cincinnati and plans to start working with teachers in three local school districts this winter.

"Who is this individual who is the chief executive officer of a firm with sales of half a billion dollars a year. Is he human or isn't he?"

"Business and industry are reaping the harvest of their past reticence...of not talking about themselves to the press and others," Vredevelde said.

The center is working up programs with school districts in southwest Ohio and northern Kentucky that will fit into existing curriculum.

"We think the person teaching American history should be aware of the economy that created that history," said Vredevelde.

"If they can teach science in kindergarten, like talking about electricity, they can also talk about where it comes from, who makes the rates — it is set by a government agency not an executive," Vredevelde said.

But more than the interworkings "and excitement of business," the center is concerned with the entire economic spectrum.

"A lot of misconceptions about what business does, I think, is that people really don't see how business fits into the economic system and consequently what kind of decisions business has to make. To understand business, you first have to understand how the economy works," Vredevelde said.

Vredevelde said "most people think there is a conspiracy among business people to go out and get the public.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Report Barking Dog And Get Some Rest

DEAR ABBY: Our neighbors across the street are lovely people, but they have one fault. They tie their dogs outside in summer, and he barks continually, night and day, for no reason at all. I love dogs, so I can't bring myself to do anything that might hurt him, such as poison him, shoot him or turn him loose at night, although I confess I have thought of it during a sleepless night while the barking was at its peak.

I hate to make enemies of these lovely people by reporting them to the police or humane society. And ear plugs are out because if an emergency phone call or knock on the door came, I could not hear it. I have spoken to these neighbors several times about it, but they do nothing. Any suggestions?

DOG-TIRED
DEAR DOG-TIRED: Tell these "lovely people" that since your previous requests have been ignored, you must now protest to the authorities. Your rest is more important than their friendship.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have taken a teenage cousin into our home because she is in trouble. We have children of our own and are financially able to care for this girl and pay all her expenses. She has one year of high school left, which she will finish after her baby is born.

Now the problem: She wants to keep her baby. We have had our doctor and lawyer talk to her, and no one can get through to her. She thinks it is a "sin" to give away her own flesh and blood.

Abby, this child is 17 and the boy will not marry her (for which she is lucky, as he is only a kid himself and not much good.) My husband and I would adopt the child as a compromise, but we want her to put her past behind her, go on to college and start life over where no one knows of her mistake. We need your help in convincing her that this would be best for her and the baby. Please help us.

ANONYMOUS

DEAR ANONYMOUS: It would appear that the girl, under the guise of selflessness and sacrifice, feels guilty and is determined to punish herself for her mistake. Actually, she would be punishing the child more.

For you to adopt the baby would be as grave a mistake as for her to keep it. I know of no one more qualified to deal with "sin" than a clergyman. Ask yours to talk to the girl.

CONFIDENTIAL TO E.L.R. IN JAMESTOWN: Yes, I have a booklet titled "HOW TO HAVE A LOVELY WEDDING," but the best advice I can offer a bride is, "See your doctor (and preferably a gynecologist) for a physical checkup and authoritative answer to all your questions before marriage."

If birth control is desired, it should be planned BEFORE the wedding. This includes Catholic girls, too, as the rhythm method should be clearly understood to be successfully practiced. (Too many young wives, who had planned on working for a few years, discover to their horror that they got pregnant on their honeymoon.)

Many couples experience shock and grief on learning that they are unable to consummate the marriage due to some slight physical abnormality which would have been easily corrected by minor surgery.

Motherly advice from Aunt Liz or "tips" from one of the girls is fine, but before a bride keeps her date with the preacher, she should keep one with her doctor.

NAACP Asks District Judge For Timetable

CLEVELAND (AP) — The NAACP on Friday asked U.S. District Court Judge Frank J. Battisti to adopt a timetable that would result in adoption of a desegregation plan for Cleveland schools by Nov. 10.

The NAACP also asked Battisti to establish a department of planning and implementation to require the Cleveland Board of Education to put $15 million in escrow to pay for desegregation and to reject the board's motion to reconsider his order about school closings.

Both the Cleveland and Ohio boards of education were found responsible for creating segregation in Cleveland in a decision by Battisti on Aug. 31, 1976.

However, the NAACP complained that no pupil desegregation has taken place.

In its motion Friday, the civil rights organization said, "Plaintiffs now fear that, barring decisive action by this court, the constitutional rights to which they are entitled and which have been initially vindicated by this court, will not be enjoyed."

The motion asked that Special Master Daniel R. McCarthy draft and present a plan for desegregation to the court by Oct. 6. Following that would be hearings and a final order by Battisti by Nov. 10.

The department of planning and implementation suggested by the NAACP would supervise transportation, gather and analyze data on desegregation, resolve conflicts over pupil reassignment, help train the staff of the school system, provide information to the public and handle safety arrangement for pupils in desegregation.

The NAACP also said the school board's motion for Battisti to reconsider his order about school closings in Cleveland is redundant because the judge already has given the board authority to close schools.

Waynesville Readies For Sauerkraut Eaters

WAYNESVILLE, Ohio (AP) — There are no secret ingredients involved in preparing A. J. Linz Sons' biggest money-maker — sauerkraut.

"It's no big secret," admitted Robert Linz. "The sauerkraut ferments itself in salt and water. Nothing else is added."

Sauerkraut is a magic word these days in this Ohio town which is preparing for its annual Sauerkraut Festival Oct. 8-9.

Each year, the little family operation promises to deliver 4,000 pounds of the pickled cabbage which will be baked into cookies, cakes, or just heaped on plates for consumption by those attending the festival.

"It's our largest single order all year," Linz said. "We're just a small family operation. My dad started it in 1917 and my brother and I run it now, along with his son, Bill."

This week, the sauerkraut earmarked for the Waynesville festival was cut at the Linz operation, which is housed across the street from where Robert Linz was born.

After cutting, the sauerkraut is fermented in giant casks and when it is delivered it will be packed into 100 plastic buckets, each of which holds 40 pounds.

Linz usually visits the Saurkraut

Festival, and he says that almost everyone overcooks his product.

"You can eat our product as it is," he said. "At the most, it shouldn't be cooked more than an hour and a half. Cook it six hours and all that happens is it gets soggy."

The Waynesville sauerkraut begins as New York Danish cabbage. It is trimmed by hand, shredded, salted and put in brine for ferment.

Of course, how much salt, which is added in layers as the cabbage is shredded, constitutes the proper amount cannot be scientifically determined.

"We can tell when we've got enough in," Linz said. "I don't know how much that is."

Linz can remember when there were 11 small firms in the Cincinnati area which produced sauerkraut. Now there are only two.

"We're kind of a fading occupation," he said. "There are some huge operations. But we've raised our family on this."

The Linz brothers also market pickles, including dills, sweet pickles and various sauces and spreads.

The pickles aren't cured by Linz, but the firm adds its own "secret sauce to bring the tast all the way out," Linz said.

Retiree Raps Carter For Delaying Retirement Bill

CINCINNATI (AP) — The head of two of the nation's largest organizations of retirees has criticized the Carter Administration for delaying Senate action on a bill to abolish mandatory retirement.

Harriet Miller, executive director of the American Association of Retired Persons and National Retired Teachers Association, sent a telegram to President Carter Thursday expressing "extreme disappointment" at what she said were delaying tactics.

She urged the President to immediately define his position on the bill currently pending before a Senate committee which would raise the mandatory retirement age for the private sector from 65 to 70 and abolish forced retirement practices for federal employees.

Ms. Miller, as she prefers to be called, said she had received word that Labor Secretary Ray Marshall had sent a letter to the chairman of the Senate's Human Resources Committee asking that action on the bill be delayed for further study.

"We are baffled by this action," she said. "All of the questions about the economic and fiscal impact of the bill have been answered repeatedly by numerous witnesses appearing before Congressional committees."

The two organizations, which are holding a regional convention here this week, expressed satisfaction however with a decision Thursday by a U.S. House of Representatives subcommittee.

The House Ways and Means subcommittee voted to raise to $4,500 next year the amount a retired person could earn without losing Social Security benefits.

Recipients who now earn more than $3,000 lose $1 in benefits for ever $2 they bring in above the ceiling.

"It's a step in the right direction," said a spokesman for the two groups.

Redford Fears Pollution Of Utah Valley

PROVO, Utah (AP) — Movie star Robert Redford fears pollution is destroying the "incredible heritage" of the Utah Valley, the only place "where I feel I can be treated as a human being and not in a goldfish bowl."

Speaking to students at Brigham Young University on Thursday, he said pollution is beginning to creep up the canyon where he lives and "I'm not about to sit back and let that happen without at least speaking out."

Redford, who rarely makes public appearances in his home state, blamed the pollution on industry and automobiles.

School Principal Says Discipline Starts With Student Rights

YELLOW SPRINGS, Ohio (AP) — Student discipline starts with student rights, according to the youthful, new administrator of Morgan Middle School here.

Ronald Sinclair, 26, said a key to maintaining a learning environment is to "make students aware they have rights and that because they have rights, they have responsibilities."

"We're trying to open up more rights to students that can handle them. That's when they realize that there is a benefit to self-discipline."

Sinclair said students at Morgan have been informed of several rights: an uninterrupted education, due process in disciplinary proceedings, freedom of expression and protection from unreasonable search and seizure.

"During a certain period, students can watch films and listen to records, or just read quietly. This is a right. People who can handle it—the one's with self-discipline — can have the rights."

"It helps the students to know that, no matter what happens, there is a policy they can follow to have a cross check. That's really a right, too," said Sinclair, who like many teachers has other things on his mind besides discipline.

He currently is improving a textbook he wrote, finishing his doctorate, and becoming a father in February.

Sinclair's achievements and demeanor would calm the fears of those who might consider him too young to be at the helm of a middle school.

The new principal's scholastic specialty is interdisciplinary middle school programs. His textbook is based on his experience in Wayne Township schools in Butler County, where he pioneered the blending of two usually separate educational experiences—industrial arts and home economics.

But as an administrator, he often has to deal with the nonscholastic, such as the school's leaky roof.

"There is a high correlation between how teachers and administration create a working climate and the climate between the teacher and the student. By this, I hope for an open, mature and exciting climate."

"As for the community, well, they pay the taxes that build the schools and pay the salaries. They rely on us to educate their kids."

NAACP Asks District Judge For Timetable

CLEVELAND (AP) — The NAACP on Friday asked U.S. District Court Judge Frank J. Battisti to adopt a timetable that would result in adoption of a desegregation plan for Cleveland schools by Nov. 10.

The NAACP also asked Battisti to establish a department of planning and implementation to require the Cleveland Board of Education to put $15 million in escrow to pay for desegregation and to reject the board's motion to reconsider his order about school closings.

Both the Cleveland and Ohio boards of education were found responsible for creating segregation in Cleveland in a decision by Battisti on Aug. 31, 1976.

However, the NAACP complained that no pupil desegregation has taken place. In its motion Friday, the civil rights organization said, "Plaintiffs now fear that, barring decisive action by this court, the constitutional rights to which they are entitled and which have been initially vindicated by this court, will not be enjoyed."

The motion asked that Special Master Daniel R. McCarthy draft and present a plan for desegregation to the court by Oct. 6. Following that would be hearings and a final order by Battisti by Nov. 10.

The department of planning and implementation suggested by the NAACP would supervise transportation, gather and analyze data on desegregation, resolve conflicts over pupil reassignment, help train the staff of the school system, provide information to the public and handle safety arrangement for pupils in desegregation.

The NAACP also said the school board's motion for Battisti to reconsider his order about school closings in Cleveland is redundant because the judge already has given the board authority to close schools.

Waynesville Readies For Sauerkraut Eaters

WAYNESVILLE, Ohio (AP) — There are no secret ingredients involved in preparing A. J. Linz Sons' biggest moneymaker — sauerkraut. "It's no big secret," admitted Robert Linz. "The sauerkraut ferments itself in salt and water. Nothing else is added."

Sauerkraut is a magic word these days in this Ohio town which is preparing for its annual Sauerkraut Festival Oct. 8-9.

Each year, the little family operation promises to deliver 4,000 pounds of the pickled cabbage which will be baked into cookies, cakes, or just heaped on plates for consumption by those attending the festival.

"It's our largest single order all year," Linz said. "We're just a small family operation. My dad started it in 1917 and my brother and I run it now, along with his son, Bill."

This week, the sauerkraut earmarked for the Waynesville festival was cut at the Linz operation, which is housed across the street from where Robert Linz was born.

After cutting, the sauerkraut is fermented in giant casks and when it is delivered it will be packed into 100 plastic buckets, each of which holds 40 pounds.

Linz usually visits the Saurkraut

Festival, and he says that almost everyone overcooks his product.

"You can eat our product as it is," he said. "At the most, it shouldn't be cooked more than an hour and a half. Cook it six hours and all that happens is it gets soggy."

The Waynesville sauerkraut begins as New York Danish cabbage. It is trimmed by hand, shredded, salted and put in brine to ferment.

Of course, how much salt, which is added in layers as the cabbage is shredded, constitutes the proper amount cannot be scientifically determined.

"We can tell when we've got enough in," Linz said. "I don't know how much that is."

Linz can remember when there were 11 small firms in the Cincinnati area which produced sauerkraut. Now there are only two.

"We're kind of a fading occupation," he said. "There are some huge operations. But we've raised our family on this."

The Linz brothers also market pickles, including dills, sweet pickles and various sauces and spreads.

The pickles aren't cured by Linz, but the firm adds its own "secret sauce to bring the taste all the way out," Linz said.

Retiree Raps Carter For Delaying Retirement Bill

CINCINNATI (AP) — The head of two of the nation's largest organizations of retirees has criticized the Carter Administration for delaying Senate action on a bill to abolish mandatory retirement.

Harriet Miller, executive director of the American Association of Retired Persons and National Retired Teachers Association, sent a telegram to President Carter Thursday expressing "extreme disappointment" at what she said were delaying tactics.

She urged the President to immediately define his position on the bill currently pending before a Senate committee which would raise the mandatory retirement age for the private sector from 65 to 70 and abolish forced retirement practices for federal employees.

Ms. Miller, as she prefers to be called, said she had received word that Labor Secretary Ray Marshall had sent a letter to the chairman of the Senate's Human Resources Committee asking that action on the bill be delayed for further study.

"We are baffled by this action," she said. "All of the questions about the economic and fiscal impact of the bill have been answered repeatedly by numerous witnesses appearing before Congressional committees."

The two organizations, which are holding a regional convention here this week, expressed satisfaction however with a decision Thursday by a U.S. House of Representatives subcommittee.

The House Ways and Means subcommittee voted to raise to $4,500 next year the amount a retired person could earn without losing Social Security benefits.

Recipients who now earn more than $3,000 lose $1 in benefits for ever $2 they bring in above the ceiling.

"It's a step in the right direction," said a spokesman for the two groups.

Redford Fears Pollution Of Utah Valley

PROVO, Utah (AP) — Movie star Robert Redford fears pollution is destroying the "incredible heritage" of the Utah Valley, the only place "where I feel I can be treated as a human being and not in a goldfish bowl."

Speaking to students at Brigham Young University on Thursday, he said pollution is beginning to creep up the canyon where he lives and "I'm not about to sit back and let that happen without at least speaking out."

Redford, who rarely makes public appearances in his home state, blamed the pollution on industry and automobiles.

Mustangs Fall, 33-7, To Dayton Jefferson

By CHUCK STEINHAUSER
For The Herald

"Our boys gave 100 per cent, but we were simply outclassed."

With these words, Westfall mentor John Glanton accurately capsulized the Mustang's 33-7 loss at the hands of the hosting Dayton Jefferson Bronco's.

The Broncos possessed too much speed for the Mustang defenders, as they bested them with several big plays, such as a 75-yard kickoff-return, and a 52 yard pass play.

The Mustangs received the opening kickoff and promptly fumbled the ball over the the Broncos three plays later on the 15-yard line. However, the Jefferson offense returned the favor after three handoffs of their own. Westfall took over on their own 6-yard line. After they were unable to generate any offense Mike Moore punted to the Broncos. But the Mustang defenders held tough, and forced Jefferson to punt also.

Westfall took over on the 5-yard line, but two plays later, the Mustang's "Mister-Everything" back, Tony Simon, let the pigskin get away from his grasp at the Mustang six. Three plays later, Jefferson scored on a 3-yard pass play from quarterback Otis White to his favorite receiver, Tim Trip. The placement was good, and the Bronco's took a 7-0 lead into the second quarter.

After an exchange of punts, the Jeffers took advantage of good field position by connecting on a picture-perfect pass play of 52 yards for the Bronco's second score of the night. The kick was blocked however, and the men from Dayton extended their lead to 13-0.

The teams traded punts with the Mustangs winning the battle for field position, taking over on Dayton's 47-yard line.

Freshman QB Jerry Mowery promptly hit Dale Ruoff with a 13-yarder, giving the Mustangs a first down at the Bronco's 34-yard line. Tony Simon carried the ball five consecutive times for the Mustangs, moving the ball inside the Jeffers one-yard line. Mowery then punched the ball over the goal line, putting the Mustangs on the scoreboard for the first time. Mowery's kick was good, cutting the margin to 13-7. Neither team was able to generate any offense in their final possessions and the half came to a close.

The Jeffers treated their hometown fans to an exhibition of explosive football at the start of the second half, as speedster James Scott returned Mowery's kickoff 75 yards for the score, all but finishing the Westfall gridders. The placement was wide, and the Bronco's extended their lead to 19-7.

The teams exchanged punts, neither team able to consistently mount an offensive attack. However, the Jeffers managed to push across a couple of insurance scores before the end of the game, finally emerging victorious by the score of 33-7.

Tony Simon led the offensive charge for the Mustangs, gaining 47 yards for the night, most of which came during the Mustang's lone touchdown drive. Simon was supported by fellow ball-carriers Darren Metzger and Mike Exline, who gained 20 yards apiece. The Mustang signal callers, Jerry Mowery and George Kern, completed 3 of 7 passes between them for 20 yards, with 2 interceptions.

Westfall gained 125 total yards for the night, while Jefferson accumulated 266.

Next week, the Mustang's hosted Cincinnati Landmark Christian, with the kickoff set for 8:00 p.m.

Bloom-Carroll Upsets Amanda-Clearcreek

Amanda-Clearcreek's dreams for an undefeated season were shattered Friday when Bloom-Carroll scored a shocking 7-6 upset of the team expected to give Pickerington a run for the Mid State League football title this season.

It was an unbelievable loss for the Aces. They blew the Bulldogs all over the field but couldn't get into the end zone with the pigskin. Three times the Aces were inside the Bloom-Carroll 10-yard line, and three times they fumbled the ball and lost it. Bloom Carroll had the ball for only nine offensive plays in the second half, but the Aces couldn't capitalize on their possessions.

Late in the first period Ankrom score from the 15-yard line for the Bulldogs. The kick for the extra point was good. The scoring drive was set up by an A-L fumble at the 30. That 7-0 lead stood until the fourth quarter was five minutes old.

Tom Hinton notched the Ace's touchdown on a three-yard run. On the conversion, the Aces elected to go for the two points and a win, but they were stopped by the Bulldogs.

For the Aces, Rick Foster gained 137 yards in 19 carries, even though he was playing with the flu. For B-C, Storch gained 45 yards in 10 carries. Mike Kelley was played by A-C coach Jeff Arndt for his play. He caught one pass for 27 yards and his blocking sprung Foster for much of his yardage.

Other players cited by the coaching staff for their outstanding play were Mark LaRue, Lee Chattos, Rick Foster, Dave Marshall.

Next Friday the Aces get a chance to redeem the loss. They host Pickerington. The Aces are 1-1 overall and 0-1 in the league. The Pickerington team is 0-2 overall and 0-1 in the league.

Giants Try Madlock At Second Base

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — After 555 games as a major league third baseman, Bill Madlock may be embarking on a new career as the San Francisco Giants' second baseman of the future.

That came to light during Friday night's 5-3 loss to the Cincinnati Reds when Madlock made his big league debut at second, turning an impressive double play and making an error on a tough chance.

"It's too early to make a judgment," said Giants' Manager Joe Altobelli.

Tigers Improve, But Suffer 10-6 Loss To Hamilton Twp.

By CRAIG ALLISON
Herald Sports Writer

The Circleville Tigers tore into a big strong Hamilton Twp. eleven at Tiger Stadium Friday night, but despite a vastly improved performance over last Friday at Chillicothe, the Red and Black came up on the short end again by a 10-6 tally.

Saying the Tigers "tore into" the Rangers aptly describes the fray, as the Roundtowners' defense held Hamilton to four first downs and shut off much of the Hamilton offense. The bulk of the Ranger yardage was picked up between the 30 yard lines.

A taste of things to come for the Rangers took place midway through the first quarter, when the Rangers had worked their way to the Tiger one yard line in a fourth down situation.

The call came from the Ranger bench for a plunge up the middle of the line, and as the runner was handed the ball, he was met by half the Red and Black defense, and fell short of the score by inches.

Hamilton Twp. lit up the scoreboard first, on a 21 yard field goal by Doug Blades at the 2:30 mark in the second quarter.

The Tigers still showed that they came to play though, as Doug Marshall gathered in the ensuing kickoff near the goal line and raced back to his own 42-yard line before being upended. Two plays later the half ended with the field goal still the only tally.

The Red and Black attempted to tie the score with a 23-yard Rich Elsea field goal attempt in the third quarter, but the boot came short, and with just under seven minutes left in the third stanza, the Tigers had not yet put any markers on the board.

The Rangers took over on their own 20 yard line, but the Tiger defense dug in and forced the Rangers to "boot the finished for the Tigers.

Action continued into the fourth frame, and after stalling on offense, the Rangers punted to Circleville with just under six minutes left in the contest.

With first down, 10 yards to go on the Tiger 47 yard stripe, Anthony Smith got the nod, and the sophomore back responded as he juked well into Ranger territory behind some outstanding blocks by his mates. The Tiger coaching staff mixed the plays well, and with the blocking clearing the way, a variety of Tiger backs, including Joe Leahy, Steve Vincovich, Marshall, and Smith, moved the ball ever closer to the "promised land" in five and 10 yard chunks.

With first down and goal to go on the Ranger eight yard line, Dave Marshall capped the drive when he took the ball into a gaping hole on the left side of the Tiger line, smashed head-long into three Hamilton defenders, and hit paydirt with two of them still in tow. Danny Martin's extra point run was stopped feet from the goal, and the Red and Black had fought back from a 10-0 deficit to score their first points of 1977 with 1:30 left in the game.

The Tigers barely missed recovering their ensuing onside kick, and Hamilton Twp. elected to run the clock out and escape from Tiger Stadium with their hard won 10-6 victory.

"I can't say enough about the effort our players put out this evening," stated head football Coach Larry Cook in the Tigers' locker room after the contest. Even if we get beat, if our players put out their best effort, that's all we can ask. And we were pleased with what we saw this evening. I was very pleased with what we thought to be improved offensive consistency tonight, especially in the second half. Cook concluded by saying "anyone can see where our conditioning paid off. We were in great condition and you could really tell. It is frustrating to think that we've only given up six first downs and 19 points in two games and we've lost both of them. But we're going to get better. We'll work at correcting our mistakes. It was a great effort though, and I just can't say enough about that."

The Tigers suffered some injuries in the contest but none are thought to be serious. Greg Berrigan and Doug Brown both suffered bumps to the knees, but according to Cook, X-rays at Berger Hospital revealed no damage. Both stand good chances of returning to action next week. On the play before Marshall's touchdown run, tackle Paul Heffelfinger suffered a neck injury and was removed from the field by stretcher. Examination at Berger Hospital revealed no major injury at this time, and he was also released.

Defensively, the tackling charts showed things to be pretty even. Mike Brudzinski, Brown, Leahy, Marshall, and Jeff Strawser all had six stops to lead the squad.

The Tigers' season slate now moves to 0-2, and preparations will begin this week for next Friday's contest against the Athens Bulldogs at Tiger Stadium.

Can the Miami Trace Panthers be beaten? That may be debatable, but the Teays Valley Vikings put the Fayette County squad to the test in a first half knock-down drag-out before bowing 58-0 to the visiting Panthers Friday night.

Art Schlichter, the prep All-American quarterback, threw long aerials through the sky that seemed to float into the outstretched hands of Bill Hanners and Dave Creamer, including touchdown passes of 30 yards and more.

Denny Combs churned upfield for 111 yards to lead both teams.

The Panthers gained 348 yards on the ground. Creamer ran for 79, Schlichter for 50 and Brian Zurface for 44.

Teays Valley rushed for 63 yards. John Sanders gained 58 and John Woodruff had 22.

Duane Keller's running suffered due to several sacks behind the scrimmage line.

Keller connected on four of 13 passes for 35 yards.

Art Schlichter completed 16 of 25 passes for 233 yards but in the early going, had troubles.

Teays Valley's super enthusiastic defense but the pressure to both the passer and receiver and the scrambling Schlichter connected on only five of his first 10 passes with two interceptions.

Trace kicked off, but the Vikings were forced to punt. On the Panther's fourth play, Combs fumbled and safety Dave Rece recovered near midfield to the delight of an electrified crowd.

But, as luck would have it, the Vikings fumbled on their first play and it was all for naught.

The Fayette County Gridders scored later on the possession as Combs drove over from the one and Creamer ran the conversion for an 8-0 score at 4:57.

Both teams exchanged the ball several times as the Panther defense held the Norse men and the Vikings recovered fumbles or picked up an interception. The Viking defense struck to the Panthers like gnats most of the first 18 minutes.

Trace's next score didn't come until 6:21 left in the second period when Combs ran 38 yards on a draw play to make it 14-0.

On the next possession, Schlichter connected four times in a row to four different players, the last one a 30-yarder to Creamer who ran in with the touchdown.

Schlichter ran in the conversion.

A Panther onside kick backfired and the Vikings had the ball 40 yards short of paydirt and moved to the 22 before Duane Keller's last second pass was intercepted.

The Vikings luck went downhill quickly in the second half when, on the first play of the half, Combs ran 38 yards for a six-pointer. Schlichter scored the conversion.

Shane Riley hauled in a three-yard pass in the endzone at 6:53, with Schlichter running the conversion.

A 42-yard pass play from Schlichter to Hanners came less than two minutes later to make it 44-0.

Teays Valley then penetrated deep into Panther territory, largely on John Sanders 35 yard run but a no-gain run, an incomplete pass and a quarterback sack forced the Vikes to punt again. Combs scored at 2:03 and Schlichter added a conversion.

The Panthers put their second team in for the last quarter. Quarterback

Scott Grooms scored the last touchdown at 2:08 left in the contest.

It is to the Vikings credit that they never gave up. The teams and the overflow crowd of fans displayed good sportsmanship throughout the contest.

Panther Head Coach Fred Zechman said afterwards, "We played pretty sloppy through the first half. That was the worst we played in a couple of years.

"In the third quarter we played a really good game. The defense played super the whole game," he said.

The Miami Trace mentor said, "Teays Valley has a good team. They hit us hard. They impressed us. I think they'll get better and better."

Viking coach Bill Wood commented, "We got beat and beat bad by a good team. We played good football the first quarter and a half, but a couple of mental errors on defense got us in the hole before half time which enabled them to gamble relentlessly on defense and as a result, our offense was ineffective.

"I've got to give all credit to them. They're an outstanding football team and deserve to win.

"But," Wood added, "We've got eight games to go and we're going all out to win all eight."

Mustangs Fall, 33-7,
To Dayton JeffersonBy CHUCK STEINHAUSER
For The Herald

"Our boys gave 100 per cent, but we were simply outclassed."

With these words, Westfall mentor John Glanton accurately capsulized the Mustang's 33-7 loss at the hands of the hosting Dayton Jefferson Broncos.

The Broncos possessed too much speed for the Mustang defenders, as they bested them with several big plays, such as a 75-yard kickoff-return, and a 52 yard pass play.

The Mustangs received the opening kickoff and promptly fumbled the ball over the the Broncos three plays later on the 15-yard line. However, the Jefferson offense returned the favor after three handoffs of their own.

Westfall took over on their own 6-yard line. After they were unable to generate any offense Mike Moore punted to the Broncos. But the Mustang defenders held tough, and forced Jefferson to punt also.

Westfall took over on the 5-yard line, but two plays later, the Mustang's "Mister-Everything" back, Tony Simon, let the pigskin get away from his grasp at the Mustang six. Three plays later, Jefferson scored on a 3-yard pass play from quarterback Otis White to his favorite receiver, Tim Trip. The placement was good, and the Broncos took a 7-0 lead into the second quarter.

After an exchange of punts, the Jeffers took advantage of good field position by connecting on a picture-perfect pass play of 52 yards for the Bronco's second score of the night. The kick was blocked however, and the men from Dayton extended their lead to 13-0.

The teams traded punts with the Mustangs winning the battle for field position, taking over on Dayton's 47-yard line.

Freshman QB Jerry Mowery promptly hit Dale Ruoff with a 13-yarder, giving the Mustangs a first down at the Bronco's 34-yard line. Tony Simon carried the ball five consecutive times for the Mustangs, moving the ball inside the Jeffers one-yard line. Mowery then punched the ball over the goal line, putting the Mustangs on the scoreboard for the first time. Mowery's kick was good, cutting the margin to 13-7. Neither team was able to generate any offense in their final possessions and the half came to a close.

The Jeffers treated their hometown fans to an exhibition of explosive football at the start of the second half, as speedster James Scott returned Mowery's kickoff 75 yards for the score, all but finishing the Westfall gridders. The placement was wide, and the Bronco's extended their lead to 19-7.

The teams exchanged punts, neither team able to consistently mount an offensive attack. However, the Jeffers managed to push across a couple of insurance scores before the end of the game, finally emerging victorious by the score of 33-7.

Tony Simon led the offensive charge for the Mustangs, gaining 47 yards for the night, most of which came during the Mustang's lone touchdown drive. Simon was supported by fellow ball-carriers Darren Metzger and Mike Exline, who gained 20 yards apiece. The Mustang signal callers, Jerry Mowery and George Kern, completed 3 of 7 passes between them for 20 yards, with 2 interceptions.

Westfall gained 125 total yards for the night, while Jefferson accumulated 266.

Next week, the Mustang's hosted Cincinnati Landmark Christian, with the kickoff set for 8:00 p.m.

Bloom-Carroll Upsets
Amanda-Clearcreek

Amanda-Clearcreek's dreams for an undefeated season were shattered Friday when Bloom-Carroll scored a shocking 7-6 upset of the team expected to give Pickerington a run for the Mid State League football title this season.

It was an unbelievable loss for the Aces. They blew the Bulldogs all over the field but couldn't get into the end zone with the pigskin. Three times the Aces were inside the Bloom-Carroll 10-yard line, and three times they fumbled the ball and lost it. Bloom Carroll had the ball for only nine offensive plays in the second half, but the Aces couldn't capitalize on their possessions.

Late in the first period Ankrom score from the 15-yard line for the Bulldogs. The kick for the extra point was good. The scoring drive was set up by an A-L fumble at the 30. That 7-0 lead stood until the fourth quarter was five minutes old.

Other players cited by the coaching staff for their outstanding play were Mark LaRue, Lee Chattos, Rick Foster, Dave Marshall.

Next Friday the Aces get a chance to redeem the loss. They host Pickerington. The Aces are 1-1 overall and 0-1 in the league. The Pickerington team is 0-2 overall and 0-1 in the league.

Braves Falter In Final Period; Lose 40-6 To PHS

Logan Elm deserved a better fate Friday than the 40-6 thrashing that they took at the hands of Pickerington, defending football kings of the Mid State League.

The determined Braves battled the larger and more experienced Picktown Tigers on nearly even terms for three quarters. Then the dam broke and the Tigers flooded the scoreboard with 27 points in the final 12 minutes of play.

The Braves couldn't establish an effective ground game against the beefy Pickerington line, but the defense played superbly for three quarters.

The score was 0-0 at the end of the first quarter, 6-0 at halftime and 13-6 going into the final period.

Logan Elm gained only 47 yards on the ground. They added 69 through air for a total of 116 yards on offense. Pickerington gained 215 yards on the ground and 58 through the air for a total of 273.

Fumbles, penalties and intercepted pass killed the Braves, giving the Tigers good field position throughout the final period. The Braves fumbled four times, lost three of them, had one pass intercepted and were penalized a total of 90 yards.

In the first quarter, the deepest penetration by either team was to the 15-yard line by Pickerington on their opening drive. There the LE defense got tough, throwing Pickerington for two successive losses back to the 23. With a fourth and 18 to go, Pickerington attempted a field goal but it was short.

Late in the first quarter, the Braves punted from their own eight. A short kick gave Pickerington excellent field position at the LE 25, setting up the first scoring drive of the game.

They used six running plays with Jeff Moore carrying the ball in from the six to score with 10:35 to go in the second period. The Braves lost a fumble at their own 34 less than a minute later, but the defense stalled the vaunted Tigers at the 11-yard line. LE moved the ball out to the 34-yard again, but was forced to punt from there. Neither team could get beyond the 50 for the rest of the half.

The Braves fumbled on the third play from scrimmage in the second half and the ball was recovered by Pickerington at the LE 36-yard-line. An 8-play drive was culminated by Harold Auten who carried the ball in from the four to score with 6:48 to go. Dan Wood booted the extra point to make the score 13-6.

Jerry Scanlan ran the ensuing kickoff from his own 25 back to the 45. But two penalties set the Braves back to the 32 where they had a fourth and 24 situation.

A fake kick caught the Tigers by surprise and Rock Huggins connected on a pass to Scanlan to Pickerington's 44 where they had a first down by about a yard.

A penalty against Pickerington on the next play gave LE a first down at the 27. Bob Eanes picked up five yards on a quick hitter up the middle. Tony Crist added two more yards and then Scanlan was stopped for no gain, leaving the Braves with a fourth and three situation at the 20.

Crist called on Eanes for another quick hitter up the middle and the senior halfback picked up seven yards and a first down. Another run by Eanes moved the ball to the nine, but a penalty against LE set them back to the 14.

From there, Crist found Bruce Hannigan in the end zone with a pass and the only score the Braves had all night. At that point, with 1:34 to go in the third quarter, it looked like the Braves still had a chance. The score was 13-6.

But Pickerington's Harold Auten returned the kickoff from Pickerington's 15 yard line to the 45. From there the Tigers marched downfield and with 10:17 to go in the game, Moore scored from two yards out. Wood kicked the extra point and the score was 20-6.

The Braves were unable to get a first down on their try with the pigskin when Eanes was stopped at the line of scrimmage by Pickerington and the Tigers took over at LE's 41.

Five plays later, Keith Kristoff, senior quarterback, scored from 22 yards out. Wood's kick gave the Tigers a 27-6 lead.

On the first play following the Pickerington kickoff, a Logan Elm pass was intercepted by Pickerington at the 48-yard line. The Tigers converted the interception into a score with Kristoff again going the final distance from a yard out for a 33-6 lead. This time the try for the extra point was wide of its mark.

The Braves lost the ball on a fumble at their own 21 yard line with only seconds remaining in the game. The

Vikings, Cowboys Square Off Sunday

Two of professional sports' most successful expansion franchises, the Minnesota Vikings and Dallas Cowboys, square off in one of the feature games of the first weekend of National Football League action Sunday.

The Cowboys, who were 0-11-1 in their first season in 1960, have not had a losing season since 1964 and have posted a 137-93-6 record in 17 years under Coach Tom Landry.

The Vikings won three games in their rookie year of 1961, a record for an expansion franchise. They have a team record of 127-89-8 and have not had a losing season since 1967, the first year under Coach Bud Grant.

Vikings' quarterback Fran Tarkenton is looking forward to the tough opener in Bloomington.

"I feel like a schoolboy, I really do. I never get over that surge. How many years? The 17th for me."

Whether the Vikings make it to their fifth Super Bowl—they've lost all four previous appearances in the championship game—might be indicated by their performance against Dallas. Each time Minnesota won its season's opener since 1970, the Vikings took the NFC Central Division title. In 1972, when they lost their opener to Washington, the Vikes finished behind Green Bay in the division.

Minnesota hasn't lost at home since the Cowboys defeated them in the 1975 playoffs.

Much-heralded rookie Tony Dorsett will not start for the Cowboys.

In Sunday's other openers, defending champion Oakland entertains San Diego, Philadelphia hosts Tampa Bay, Cleveland journeys to Cincinnati, Los Angeles visits Atlanta, Washington is at the Giants, Miami is in Buffalo,

Beulah Park To Have 'Day At The Races'

Beulah Park Jockey Club and the Grove City Greyhound Booster Club have announced the 1977 "Day At The Races" will be held at Beulah Park Race Track Sunday, Oct. 23, during the fall racing meet.

The event will be for the benefit of participating non-profit and charitable organizations, according to Carroll Nibert, event chairman.

"Day at the Races" tickets will be sold. Each ticket makes the holder eligible to win a 1977 Thunderbird, or up to $1,950 in cash awards. The ticket also provides a free grandstand admission to Beulah Park on the contest day.

Mel Baker, president of the Grove City Greyhound Booster Club, said any organization that is nonprofit or charitable can participate in the "Day at the Races" proceeds by selling tickets. He said the proceeds will be divided between the participating organizations and the Booster Club. Interested organizations can contact Mrs. Phyllis Relyea, (614) 875-2641 or Mrs. Joy Richardson, (614) 875-4672 for more information.

The Logan Elm Marching Band made the trip to Pickerington last night, but because of the wet field, the halftime show was limited, with both bands playing from a standing formation so they would not damage the playing surface.

Kansas City plays at New England, Detroit is at Chicago, Green Bay visits New Orleans, the New York Jets are in Houston, St. Louis is at Denver and Seattle hosts Baltimore.

On Monday night, it's San Francisco at Pittsburgh.

The Raiders open defense of their first NFL title against improved San Diego. The entire 22-man starting unit for Oakland returns intact, making the Raiders a heavy favorite to recapture the championship.

Tampa Bay goes after its first regular season win ever after an 0-14 opening campaign. They'll do so with a virtual unknown at quarterback, Randy Hedberg, a rookie from Minot (N.D.) State.

Hedberg, son of a North Dakota wheat farmer, engineered the Bucs' 14-0 victory over Baltimore last week in place of injured quarterbacks Gary Huff and Mike Boryla.

Philadelphia also will feature a new quarterback, Ron Jaworski, who was acquired from the Los Angeles Rams in the offseason.

Cincinnati, considered a good bet to dethrone the Steelers in the AFC Central, has Brownskiller Isaac Curtis primed for the opener.

Joe Namath makes his debut for the Rams against injury-riddled Atlanta, whose head coach, Leeman Bennett, worked for the Rams last season. Atlanta has lost No. 1 signal caller Steve Bartkowski for most of the season with a knee injury.

Cavaliers Keep Six, Cut Five

RICHFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Top rookie draft choices Ed Jordan of Rutgers and Steve Grote of Michigan survived the Cleveland Cavaliers' week-long rookie and free agent camp, along with four other players.

Cavaliers Coach Bill Fitch Friday invited the six players to return next Tuesday when the National Basketball Association team's veterans begin training for the 1977-78 season.

Among those released Friday were free agent center LaRue Martin of DePaul, a No. 1 choice of the Portland Trail Blazers in the 1974 draft. Also cut were draft choices guards Melvin Jones of West Texas State, forward Ron Cox of Eastern Washington State and forward Tom Cutter of Western Michigan, along with free agent guard Dan Frost of Iowa.

Forward-guard Al Smith of Jackson State, a low draft choice, was expected to be part of a minor trade engineered by Fitch and expected to be closed today with an unnamed NBA team.

Guards Jordan and Grote will join the veterans next week along with fellow draftee forward Bob Riddle of Eastern Michigan and free agents guard Don Smith of Dayton, center Ed Lawrence of McNeese State and Elisha McSweeney of Mankato State.

Smith has spent some time in the NBA as a journeyman, while Lawrence and McSweeney both were drafted by the Cavaliers a year ago and released.

Winning the National League West should be as easy as one-two-three for the Los Angeles Dodgers.

But winning the National League playoffs might be a tougher number for them, says Manager Vern Rapp of the St. Louis Cardinals.

"I think Philadelphia will beat Los Angeles in the playoffs," Rapp said Friday night, conceding the respective division titles to each team.

Rapp, whose Cardinals were eliminated by the Phillies in a 12-6 loss, went on to explain that "Their bullpen has been strong. They've got a lot of offense."

By winning Friday night, Philadelphia's runaway East leaders reduced to six their "magic number" for the division crown with Friday night's victory.

Philadelphia Manager Danny Ozark was thinking just as optimistically as Rapp after the Phillies' lead soared to nine games over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The Dodgers, meanwhile, cut their clinching number to three by beating the Atlanta Braves, 3-2.

Elsewhere in the National League, the Cincinnati Reds kept their hopes alive in the West by beating the San Francisco Giants 5-3; the Montreal Expos whipped Pittsburgh 5-0; the Chicago Cubs stopped the New York Mets 5-2 and the San Diego Padres edged the Houston Astros 4-3 in 10 innings.

Greg Luzinski and Jay Johnstone paced an extra-hit barrage with two doubles apiece as the Phillies walloped the Cardinals. Philadelphia packed eight doubles into a 16-hit attack off John Denny and Pete Falcone.

Warren Brusstar, 6-2, the second of three Philadelphia pitchers, was credited with the victory. Denny, 7-7, who has not won in 14 starts since May 31, absorbed the defeat.

Dodgers 3, Braves 2

Dave Lopes' run-scoring single with one out in the ninth inning gave Los Angeles its victory over Atlanta.

The Dodgers loaded the bases in the ninth on a single by Dusty Baker, a walk to Rick Monday and a fielder's choice by Jerry Grote. After reliever Dave Campbell struck out pinch-hitter Lee Lacy, Lopes drilled his game-winning single to right-center to break a 2-2 tie.

Lance Rautzahn, 4-1, who followed starter Rick Rhoden and Charlie Hough, earned the victory. Eddie Solomon, 5-6, who pitched into the ninth, took the loss.

Reds 5, Giants 3

Dan Driessen belted a pair of doubles and a triple and drove in two runs to power Cincinnati past San Francisco. Driessen's double, Johnny Bench's single and run-scoring singles by Dave Concepcion and Pete Rose gave the Reds a 2-0 lead in the second inning off loser Greg Minton, 0-1.

Ken Griffey's single and Driessen's second double made it 3-0 in the third. The Reds added an unearned run in the fifth and made it 5-0 on George Foster's single and Driessen's triple in the eighth.

Doug Capilla, 7-7, pitched six scoreless innings for the Reds, but the Giants jumped on relievers Tom Hume and Angel Torres for three runs in the eighth.

Expos 5, Pirates 0

Rookie left-hander Dan Schatzeder and Don Stanhouse combined on a six-hitter as Montreal blanked Pittsburgh. Schatzeder, who allowed five hits in 61-3 innings, gained the victory in his first major league start.

Tony Perez hit a two-run homer in the first and Gary Carter a solo shot in the second to give the Expos all the runs they needed.

Bruce Kison, 8-9, gave up three runs and eight hits through the first four innings.

Cubs 5, Mets 2

A two-run single by Steve Swisher in the eighth inning led Chicago over New York in the completion of a suspended game halted on July 13 by the New York City blackout.

Swisher's two-out single scored Larry Bittner and Gene Clines to give the Cubs a 4-2 lead. They added a run in the ninth on Bobby Murcer's RBI single.

The regularly-scheduled second game was rained out and rescheduled as part of a doubleheader today.

Padres 4, Astros 3

Gene Richards' two-out, runscoring single snapped a 3-3 tie in the 10th inning, sparking San Diego over Houston. Gene Tenace led off the 10th with a walk against reliever Joe Niekro, 12-7, and advanced to second when first basemen Enos Cabell threw wildly to second on Mike Champion's sacrifice bunt.

Tucker Ashford then sacrificed the runners into scoring position, setting the stage for Richards' big hit. Dave Tomlin, 4-4, the third Padre reliever, was the winner.

Blair Sparks Yanks Win

By BOB GREENE

Defense has been the trademark of Paul Blair's major league career. But it was Blair's offense that keyed the latest New York Yankee victory.

Normally used as a late-inning defensive replacement, Blair played the whole game Friday night because of an injury to regular center fielder Mickey Rivers. He surprised even himself with a two-run home run in the eighth inning to help the Yankees edge the Detroit Tigers, 5-4.

The victory held the Yankees' American League East Division lead at 2½ games over the Baltimore Orioles. And it was the 700th career victory for Yankee Manager Billy Martin.

In his eighth year as a major league manager, Martin has directed four teams to a record of 700-557.

In other AL games Friday, Baltimore defeated Boston 6-1, California stopped Chicago 4-1,

Oakland routed Milwaukee 8-1, Seattle downed Kansas City 4-1 and Minnesota outlasted Texas, 9-7. The Toronto at Cleveland game was rained out.

The Yankees, who have won 15 of their last 20 games, had to come from behind as Detroit jumped out to a 3-1 lead on Rusty Staub's two-run homer, his 20th of the season, and a run-scoring single by John Wockenfuss.

Lou Piniella doubled home Reggie Jackson and Graig Nettles and Blair followed with his fourth homer of the season to give Don Gullett his 12th victory against four defeats.

Orioles 6, Red Sox 1

Home runs by Eddie Murray and Lee May backed Jim Palmer's eight-hit pitching as Baltimore downed Boston to take over second place in the torrid AL East race. Despite Thursday night's forfeit to Toronto, Friday's victory was Baltimore's 11th in its last 13 games.

Tennessee's Johnny Majors tries to win his first game for his alma mater tonight while Oregon State's Craig Fertig tries to win his first game against his alma mater.

Majors' debut at Tennessee was ruined by California last week, by a 27-17 score. Tonight's opposition in footballmad Knoxville is Boston College, a 44-0 loser to Texas one week ago.

Fertig, a one-time Southern California quarterback, is in his second year as head coach. His first one was marred by a 56-0 embarrassment at the hands of USC and tonight's meeting finds the Trojans ranked second.

In other key night games eighth-ranked Texas Tech entertains New Mexico, No. 15 Oklahoma State meets Arkansas in Little Rock and No. 19 Florida visits Rice.

In the afternoon, Michigan, the new No. 1 team, hosts Duke, third-ranked

Notre Dame meets Mississippi in Jackson, No. 4 Alabama visits Nebraska and No. 5 Oklahoma hosts Utah.

Rounding out the Top Ten, Minnesota is at No. 6 Ohio State, No. 7 Texas A&M meets Virginia Tech and No. 9 Houston is at No. 10 Penn State.

In the Second Ten, West Virginia visits No. 11 Maryland, Kent State is at No. 12 Colorado, Kansas visits No. 14 UCLA, William and Mary is at No. 16 Pittsburgh, Clemson takes on No. 17 Georgia and Virginia is at No. 18 Texas.

Mississippi State, the nation's No. 13 team, and No. 20 Brigham Young have the weekend off.

Boston College will be somewhat familiar to Majors who beat the Eagles in 1973 and 1974 when he coached at Pitt.

Meanwhile, Southern Cal starts its campaign for another shot at the Rose Bowl with a Pacific-8 Conference clash against Oregon State.

Orioles May Get Second Chance To Beat Toronto

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Baltimore Orioles, scrambling to stay alive in the American League's East Division race, find out today if they get another chance to win a game already recorded in the loss column.

League President Lee MacPhail promised to announce prior to Baltimore's afternoon game with the Boston Red Sox whether he would set aside Baltimore's forfeit loss to Toronto Thursday night.

The Orioles made a pitch for a reversal of the umpires' decision prior to Friday night's game against Boston. After meeting behind closed doors for more than an hour, MacPhail took the matter under advisement.

"I want to talk with the umpires again," MacPhail said. "I read their report, but I want a little additional information."

The umpiring crew headed by Marty Springstead, which is now working in Detroit, called the forfeit against Baltimore after Manager Earl Weaver took his team off the field in the bottom of the fifth inning while trailing, 4-0.

Weaver asked that a tarpaulin be removed from Toronto's bullpen, just outside the leftfield foul line, claiming it created a hazardous playing condition.

Bricks anchoring the tarp were removed, but umpires said they had no authority to have the tarp taken away.

Braves Falter In Final Period; Lose 40-6 To PHS

Logan Elm deserved a better fate Friday than the 40-6 thrashing that they took at the hands of Pickerington, defending football kings of the Mid State League.

The determined Braves battled the larger and more experienced Picktown Tigers on nearly even terms for three quarters. Then the dam broke and the Tigers flooded the scoreboard with 27 points in the final 12 minutes of play.

The Braves couldn't establish an effective ground game against the beefy Pickerington line, but the defense played superbly for three quarters.

The score was 0-0 at the end of the first quarter, 6-0 at halftime and 13-6 going into the final period.

Logan Elm gained only 47 yards on the ground. They added 89 through air for a total of 116 yards on offense. Pickerington gained 215 yards on the ground and 58 through the air for a total of 273.

Fumbles, penalties and intercepted pass killed the Braves, giving the Tigers good field position throughout the final period. The Braves fumbled four times, lost three of them, had one pass intercepted and were penalized a total of 90 yards.

In the first quarter, the deepest penetration by either team was to the 15-yard line by Pickerington on their opening drive. There the LE defense got tough, throwing Pickerington for two successive losses back to the 23. With a fourth and 18 to go, Pickerington attempted a field goal but it was short.

Late in the first quarter, the Braves punted from their own eight. A short kick gave Pickerington excellent field position at the LE 25, setting up the first scoring drive of the game.

They used six running plays with Jeff Moore carrying the ball in from the six to score with 10:35 to go in the second period. The Braves lost a fumble at their own 34 less than a minute later, but the defense stalled the vaunted Tigers at the 11-yard line. LE moved the ball out to the 34-yard again, but was forced to punt from there. Neither team could get beyond the 50 for the rest of the half.

The Braves fumbled on the third play from scrimmage in the second half and the ball was recovered by Pickerington at the LE 36-yard-line. An 8-play drive was culminated by Harold Auten who carried the ball in from the four to score with 6:48 to go. Dan Wood booted the extra point to make the score 13-6.

Jerry Scanlan ran the ensuing kickoff from his own 25 back to the 45. But two penalties set the Braves back to the 32 where they had a fourth and 24 situation.

A fake kick caught the Tigers by surprise and Rock Huggins connected on a pass to Scanlan to Pickerington's 44 where they had a first down by about a yard.

A penalty against Pickerington on the next play gave LE a first down at the 27. Bob Eanes picked up five yards on a quick hitter up the middle, Tony Crist added two more yards and then Scanlan was stopped for no gain, leaving the Braves with a fourth and three situation at the 20.

Crist called on Eanes for another quick hitter up the middle and the senior halfback picked up seven yards and a first down. Another run by Eanes moved the ball to the nine, but a penalty against LE set them back to the 14.

From there, Crist found Bruce Hannigan in the end zone with a pass and the only score the Braves had all night. At that point, with 1:34 to go in the third quarter, it looked like the Braves still had a chance. The score was 13-6.

But Pickerington's Harold Auten returned the kickoff from Pickerington's 15 yard line to the 45. From there the Tigers marched downfield and with 10:17 to go in the game, Morse scored from two yards out. Wood kicked the extra point and the score was 20-6.

The Braves were unable to get a first down on their try with the pigskin when Eanes was stopped at the line of scrimmage by Pickerington and the Tigers took over at LE's 41.

Five plays later, Keith Kristoff, senior quarterback, scored from 22 yards out. Wood's kick gave the Tigers a 27-6 lead.

On the first play following the Pickerington kickoff, a Logan Elm pass was intercepted by Pickerington at the 48-yard line. The Tigers converted the interception into a score with Kristoff again going the final distance from a yard out for a 33-6 lead. This time the try for the extra point was wide of its mark.

Cavaliers Keep Six, Cut Five

RICHFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Top rookie draft choices Ed Jordan of Rutgers and Steve Grote of Michigan survived the Cleveland Cavaliers' week-long rookie and free agent camp, along with four other players.

Cavaliers Coach Bill Fitch Friday invited the six players to return next Tuesday when the National Basketball Association team's veterans begin training for the 1977-78 season.

Among those released Friday were free agent center LaRue Martin of DePaul, a No. 1 choice of the Portland Trail Blazers in the 1974 draft. Also cut were draft choices guards Melvin Jones of West Texas State, forward Ron Cox of Eastern Washington State and forward Tom Cutter of Western Michigan, along with free agent guard Dan Frost of Iowa.

Forward-guard Al Smith of Jackson State, a low draft choice, was expected to be part of a minor trade engineered by Fitch and expected to be closed today with an unnamed NBA team.

Guards Jordan and Grote will join the veterans next week along with fellow draftee forward Bob Riddle of Eastern Michigan and free agents guard Don Smith of Dayton, center Ed Lawrence of McNeese State and Elisha McSweeney of Mankato State.

Smith has spent some time in the NBA as a journeyman, while Lawrence and McSweeney both were drafted by the Cavaliers a year ago and released.

Phils Slug Cards

Winning the National League West should be as easy as one-two-three for the Los Angeles Dodgers.

But winning the National League playoffs might be a tougher number for them, says Manager Vern Rapp of the St. Louis Cardinals.

"I think Philadelphia will beat Los Angeles in the playoffs," Rapp said Friday night, conceding the respective division titles to each team.

Rapp, whose Cardinals were eliminated by the Phillies in a 12-6 loss, went on to explain that "Their bullpen has been strong. They've got a lot of offense."

By winning Friday night, Philadelphia's runaway East leaders reduced to six their "magic number" for the division crown with Friday night's victory.

Philadelphia Manager Danny Ozark was thinking just as optimistically as Rapp after the Phillies' lead soared to nine games over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The Dodgers, meanwhile, cut their clinching number to three by beating the Atlanta Braves, 3-2.

Elsewhere in the National League, the Cincinnati Reds kept their hopes alive in the West by beating the San Francisco Giants 5-3; the Montreal Expos whipped Pittsburgh 5-0; the Chicago Cubs stopped the New York Mets 5-2 and the San Diego Padres edged the Houston Astros 4-3 in 10 innings.

Greg Luzinski and Jay Johnstone paced an extra-hit barrage with two doubles apiece as the Phillies walloped the Cardinals. Philadelphia packed eight doubles into a 16-hit attack off John Denny and Pete Falcone.

Warren Brusstar, 6-2, the second of three Philadelphia pitchers, was credited with the victory. Denny, 7-7, who has not won in 14 starts since May 31, absorbed the defeat.

Dodgers 3, Braves 2

Dave Lopes' run-scoring single with one out in the ninth inning gave Los Angeles its victory over Atlanta.

The Dodgers loaded the bases in the ninth on a single by Dusty Baker, a walk to Rick Monday and a fielder's choice by Jerry Grote. After reliever Dave Campbell struck out pinch-hitter Lee Lacy, Lopes drilled his game-winning single to right-center to break a 2-2 tie.

Lance Rautzahn, 4-1, who followed starter Rick Rhoden and Charlie Hough, earned the victory. Eddie Solomon, 5-6, who pitched into the ninth, took the loss.

Reds 5, Giants 3

Dan Driessen belted a pair of doubles and a triple and drove in two runs to power Cincinnati past San Francisco. Driessen's double, Johnny Bench's single and run-scoring singles by Dave Concepcion and Pete Rose gave the Reds a 2-0 lead in the second inning off loser Greg Minton, 0-1.

Ken Griffey's single and Driessen's second double made it 3-0 in the third. The Reds added an unearned run in the fifth and made it 5-0 on George Foster's single and Driessen's triple in the eighth.

Doug Capilla, 7-7, pitched six scoreless innings for the Reds, but the Giants jumped on relievers Tom Hume and Angel Torres for three runs in the eight.

Expos 5, Pirates 0

Rookie left-hander Dan Schatzeder and Don Stanhouse combined on a six-hitter as Montreal blanked Pittsburgh. Schatzeder, who allowed five hits in 61-3 innings, gained the victory in his first major league start.

Tony Perez hit a two-run homer in the first and Gary Carter a solo shot in the second to give the Expos all the runs they needed.

Bruce Kison, 8-9, gave up three runs and eight hits through the first four innings.

Cubs 5, Mets 2

A two-run single by Steve Swisher in the eighth inning led Chicago over New York in the completion of a suspended game halted on July 13 by the New York City blackout.

Swisher's two-out single scored Larry Bittner and Gene Clines to give the Cubs a 4-2 lead. They added a run in the ninth on Bobby Murcer's RBI single.

The regularly-scheduled second game was rained out and rescheduled as part of a doubleheader today.

Padres 4, Astros 3

Gene Richards' two-out, run-scoring single snapped a 3-3 tie in the 10th inning, sparking San Diego over Houston. Gene Tenace led off the 10th with a walk against reliever Joe Niekro, 12-7, and advanced to second when first basemen Enos Cabell threw wildly to second on Mike Champion's sacrifice bunt.

Tucker Ashford then sacrificed the runners into scoring position, setting the stage for Richards' big hit. Dave Tomlin, 4-4, the third Padre reliever, was the winner.

Blair Sparks Yanks Win

By BOB GREENE
AP Sports Writer

Defense has been the trademark of Paul Blair's major league career. But it was Blair's offense that keyed the latest New York Yankee victory.

Normally used as a late-inning defensive replacement, Blair played the whole game Friday night because of an injury to regular center fielder Mickey Rivers. He surprised even himself with a two-run home run in the eighth inning to help the Yankees edge the Detroit Tigers, 5-4.

The victory held the Yankees' American League East Division lead at 2½ games over the Baltimore Orioles. And it was the 700th career victory for Yankee Manager Billy Martin.

In his eighth year as a major league manager, Martin has directed four teams to a record of 700-557.

In other AL games Friday, Baltimore defeated Boston 6-1, California stopped Chicago 4-1,

Oakland routed Milwaukee 8-1, Seattle downed Kansas City 4-1 and Minnesota outlasted Texas, 9-7. The Toronto at Cleveland game was rained out.

The Yankees, who have won 15 of their last 20 games, had to come from behind as Detroit jumped out to a 3-1 lead on Rusty Staub's two-run homer, his 20th of the season, and a run-scoring single by John Wockenuss.

Lou Piniella doubled home Reggie Jackson and Graig Nettles and Blair followed with his fourth homer of the season to give Don Gullett his 12th victory against four teams.

Orioles 6, Red Sox 1

Home runs by Eddie Murray and Lee May backed Jim Palmer's eight-hit pitching as Baltimore downed Boston to take over second place in the torrid AL East race. Despite Thursday night's forfeit to Toronto, Friday's victory was Baltimore's 11th in its last 13 games.

Palmer, 17-11, bidding for his seventh 20-victory season in the last eight, won his fourth in a row. He survived Carl Yastrzemski's 24th homer and pitched out of trouble in the sixth, seventh and eighth innings.

Twins 9, Rangers 7

A two-run double by designated hitter Jerry Terrell keyed a six-run, seventh-inning outburst to give Minnesota its victory over Texas. The Twins sent 11 batters to the plate in the game-breaking inning as Texas used four pitchers.

Minnesota reliever Tom Johnson, 16-7, earned the victory while Rangers starter Roger Moret, 3-3, took the loss.

Angels 4, White Sox 1

Paul Hartzell hurled a six-hitter while Thad Bosley and Ken Landreaux had two hits apiece to boost California over Chicago.

Bosley drove in two runs and scored another. Landreaux scored twice and drove in one run as Hartzell raised his record to 8-10.

Mariners 4, Royals 1

Right-hander Doc Medich hurled a seven-hitter and pinch-hitter Craig Reynolds singled home a run to snap a 1-1 tie as Seattle ended Kansas City's 16-game winning streak.

Medich, 11-6, was making his first start for Seattle. The Mariners obtained him on waivers from the Oakland A's earlier in the week.

A's 8, Brewers 1

A first-inning, three-run homer by Mike Jorgensen sparked Oakland's 14-hit attack as the A's crushed Milwaukee. Joe Coleman, 3-4, got the victory while Moose Haas, 10-11, took the loss.

Von Joshua doubled home Milwaukee's run.

Orioles May Get Second Chance To Beat Toronto

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Baltimore Orioles, scrambling to stay alive in the American League's East Division race, find out today if they get another chance to win a game already recorded in the loss column.

League President Lee MacPhail promised to announce prior to Baltimore's afternoon game with the Boston Red Sox whether he would set aside Baltimore's forfeit loss to Toronto Thursday night.

The Orioles made a pitch for a reversal of the umpires' decision prior to Friday night's game against Boston. After meeting behind closed doors for more than an hour, MacPhail took the matter under advisement.

"I want to talk with the umpires again," MacPhail said. "I read their report, but I want a little additional information."

The umpiring crew headed by Marty Springstead, which is now working in Detroit, called the forfeit against Baltimore after Manager Earl Weaver took his team off the field in the bottom of the fifth inning while trailing, 4-0.

Weaver asked that a tarpaulin be removed from Toronto's bullpen, just outside the leftfield foul line, claiming it created a hazardous playing condition.

Bricks anchoring the tarp were removed, but umpires said they had no authority to have the tarp taken away.

Weaver was given the option of playing the game under protest. But he refused, following a clubhouse meeting with his players, and the forfeit resulted when the Orioles failed to take the field.

MacPhail said the Orioles feel that the decision was "unjust and improper," and asked that the ruling be reversed.

Majors Seeks First Win

Tennessee's Johnny Majors tries to win his first game for his alma mater tonight while Oregon State's Craig Fertig tries to win his first game against his alma mater.

Majors' debut at Tennessee was ruined by California last week, by a 27-17 score. Tonight's opposition in football stadium Knoxville is Boston College, a 44-0 loser to Texas one week ago.

Fertig, a one-time Southern California quarterback, is in his second year as head coach. His first one was marred by a 56-0 embarrassment at the hands of USC and tonight's meeting finds the Trojans ranked second.

In other key night games eighth-ranked Texas Tech entertains New Mexico, No. 15 Oklahoma State meets Arkansas in Little Rock and No. 19 Florida visits Rice.

In the afternoon, Michigan, the new No. 1 team, hosts Duke, third-ranked

Panel Wants To Keep Social Security Solvent

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's employers would pick up a major part of the tab for keeping Social Security solvent if the Senate Finance Committee has its way, but employees would pay more, too.

In a break with the past, the committee voted Friday to require employers to pay higher Social Security taxes than their workers.

Currently, employers and employees each pay a Social Security tax of 5.85 per cent on the first $16,500 the worker earns. The maximum amount is $967.25 a year.

For workers, the committee agreed to a formula that would raise the contribution gradually. By 1987, the employee would be taxed 7.035 per cent on the first $33,900 he earns. The maximum tax would be $2,384.86 a year.

In contrast, by 1987 employers would be taxed 7.035 per cent on the first $100,000 each worker earns. The maximum tax would amount to more than $7,000 a year.

The committee also voted to let Social Security recipients earn up to $6,000 a year by 1979 and still receive full benefits.

Now, recipients may earn $3,000 without losing benefits. Above that figure, recipients lose $1 in aid for each $2 they earn.

Many complained they could not live on the $3,000 and their Social Security benefits.

The $3,000 ceiling would increase to $4,500 next year.

A House Ways and Means subcommittee earlier this week voted a similar increase in the amount of outside earnings allowed without losing any benefits.

Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., the main author of the plan to raise the so-called wage base for employers, said it would ensure that the Social Security System is free of money worries for the next 75 years.

Nelson jokingly said his package was "less worse than any other one I've looked at."

The committee agreed, by a 10-4 vote.

Employers would start paying Social Security taxes on the first $100,000 each worker earns beginning in 1979. The $100,000 limit would increase after that to keep pace with inflation.

The proposal will hit companies that have a large number of highly paid employees hardest. Such companies include medical offices, universities and insurance companies.

Sen. Carl Curtis, R-Neb., and other Republicans on the committee opposed the plan, arguing it would put too large a burden on business. Curtis offered an alternative of raising the payroll tax equally for employers and employees, but that was voted down.

Under current law, the Social Security tax will rise Jan. 1 to 6.05 per cent of the first $17,700 workers earn, for a maximum of $1,071.

Eating Cookie Raises Constitutional Query

OCEAN BEACH, N.Y. (AP) — One defendant is charged with eating a chocolate-chip cookie, the other a crumb cake. The case may pose a sticky constitutional question.

Larry Wallick, 19, and Ruth Bushnell, 25, were to answer charges today of violating this posh resort community's ban on eating or drinking in public. They faced fines of $25 each.

They were ticketed Aug. 13 as they sat on a curb in front of a bakery, nibbling on their cookies and cake. They declined the village constable's invitation to eat their snack inside the bakery.

Rachel Doering, a first-grade teacher and owner of the bakery, received a summons for "negligently causing people to eat in the streets." She posted $10 bail each for the defendants and later in the summer had the case against her dismissed.

"I have had the police stand outside my door watching ... They actually chase down kids eating a cookie and tell them to go home and eat it, but they let the ice cream cones go," she said.

Why ice cream? "The ice cream cone is such an American institution that we had to turn the other way on that one," said village trustee Warner Danby.

"Once you allow a cookie, what's wrong with a beer? Where do you draw the line?" he asked.

The trustees say the ordinance is designed to prevent rowdiness as well as clutter. "People used to go in the streets with drinks in their hands and become unruly or carry food on the beach and leave greasy papers in the street," Danby said.

Police arrested a man recently for holding a glass of water in public. The owners of stray dogs and those who neglected to pick up after their pets with a plastic or metal scoop also were fined.

Some merchants object to the law because they say it hurts business, and the New York Civil Liberties Union has said it may challenge the law's constitutionality.

"A municipality is allowed to make regulations to prevent littering, for example, but this is over-board," said Linda Margolin, an attorney for the Suffolk County chapter of the Civil Liberties Union.

"It effectively prohibits any person who does not own property from consuming any food in the village unless they go into a restaurant for the entire meal," she said.

association," Sen. Thomas Eagleton, D-Mo., said. "In 1977 we have guilt by accumulation."

Percy, Lance's most aggressive questioner in the hearings, sharply challenged the budget director's defense against a charge, first reported by The Associated Press, that he pledged the same stock as collateral for two different loans at the same time.

"What happens to you is a special unique case; that's why there is so much resentment against the rich and the powerful," Percy, a millionaire himself, told Lance. "If somebody did that with an automobile loan, the bank would take his auto."

A report issued Aug. 18 by Heimann said Lance obtained a loan from the Chemical Bank of New York.

The collateral he used for the loan consisted of 14,657 shares that he had gotten as a dividend on National Bank of Georgia stock and which he had already put up as collateral for a $2.6-million loan from Manufacturers Hanover Trust Co.

Percy maintained that the note Lance gave Manufacturers Hanover Trust Co. obligated him to deliver to that bank on demand any dividend he received on the stock while the loan was outstanding.

Manufacturers Hanover did call for the stock dividend, but Lance resisted turning it over, arguing that the original shares were adequate collateral. He pictured the disagreement with Manufacturers Hanover as a negotiating process arising out of their differences over how the value of the original stock should be computed.

When they were unable to reach agreement, he said, he repaid the loan. Lance defended the bank's liberal overdraft policy, saying it was common in small Georgia towns where everyone knows one another.

association," Sen. Thomas Eagleton, D-Mo., said. "In 1977 we have guilt by accumulation."

Percy, Lance's most aggressive questioner in the hearings, sharply challenged the budget director's defense against a charge, first reported by The Associated Press, that he pledged the same stock as collateral for two different loans at the same time.

"What happens to you is a special unique case; that's why there is so much resentment against the rich and the powerful," Percy, a millionaire himself, told Lance. "If somebody did that with an automobile loan, the bank would take his auto."

A report issued Aug. 18 by Heimann said Lance obtained a loan from the Chemical Bank of New York.

The collateral he used for the loan consisted of 14,657 shares that he had gotten as a dividend on National Bank of Georgia stock and which he had already put up as collateral for a $2.6-million loan from Manufacturers Hanover Trust Co.

Percy maintained that the note Lance gave Manufacturers Hanover Trust Co. obligated him to deliver to that bank on demand any dividend he received on the stock while the loan was outstanding.

Manufacturers Hanover did call for the stock dividend, but Lance resisted turning it over, arguing that the original shares were adequate collateral. He pictured the disagreement with Manufacturers Hanover as a negotiating process arising out of their differences over how the value of the original stock should be computed.

When they were unable to reach agreement, he said, he repaid the loan. Lance defended the bank's liberal overdraft policy, saying it was common in small Georgia towns where everyone knows one another.
